If "Truth is stranger than fiction" consider this from "Colonial Families of America" by _Smith,Vol.1,pub.1909:
"Smiths are from Shem,Noah's son:- Shem - Shemit - Shmit - Smit - Smith. It is quite simple.Means Smiter;to smite with a hammer; from old Saxon word,Smitan."

"God must have loved the common people,
He made so many of them."-A.Lincoln.

"Let not ambition mock their useful toil,
Their homely joys,and destiny obscure;
Nor grandeur hear with a disdainful smile
The short and simple annals of the poor.

Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark,unfathomed caves of ocean bear;
Full many a flower is born to blush unseen,
And waste its sweetness on the desert air."
Thomas Gray.

The remark is often made that a Smith genealogy must be most confusing to compile. The writer thought it would be no harder than others, and began searching histories for the early generations, compiling and classifying data according to time, place and person, finding more and greater confusion the longer and deeper he searched.

At last he read in Cutter's Genealogical History of Connecticut Vol.2, p.618:

John Smith, b. in England, settled in Ipswich, Mass.
John Smith, settled in Boston, a boy, in the family of Rev. John Wilson.
John Smith, (another) of Boston was banished and went to R.I.
John Smith, a tailor in Boston.
John Smith, of Weymouth, Mass., in 1638.
John Smith, at Barnstable, Mass.
John Smith, prominent in Dorchester, Mass., early as 1636.
John Smith, of Lynn, Mass., 1636; of Salem, Mass., 1642; of Hampton, Mass.
John Smith, of Plymouth, Mass.; of Dedham, Mass.; of Lancaster, Mass.
John Smith, of Taunton, Mass.; of Charlestown, Mass.

and perhaps others, all (if not at times the same one) in Mass., before 1650.

Then the writer read in the "Biographical Genealogy of Ancient Wethersfield, Conn.," by Stiles, Vol.2, pp.628 and 657, a solid array of descedants of Lt. Samuel Smith, founder of Wethersfield, Conn., and Hadley, Mass.; of Rev. Francis Smith of Wethersfield, Conn.; of Thomas Smith in Watertown, Mass.; Francis Smith in Watertown, Mass.; Rev. Nehemiah Smith of Norwich, Conn.; Daniel of Watertown, Mass.; ignored John of Lancaster, Mass.; alluded to still others all contemporary in birth in England about 1600 to 1610 and coming to America about 1630 to 1635, then the author, Mr. Stiles, closed the thought by saying: "There were more Samuels in Wethersford, Conn., at that period (about 1635) than were necessary or conducive to the happiness of the genealogist; and when we reach the Richards, we can only ask, which?"

Yet out of this hopeless confusion we do find a fairly clear, historical account of John Smith of Lancaster, Mass., (we will call him) and can trace his descendants from about 1639 to present time.

This tracing is not in entire harmony with a tradition of "London John" which is not as impossible as it is romantic (and we hear applies to other families claiming this John) the telling of which in the Historical Section at the close of this book in more interesting than many a novel.

We think it fortunate that out of the many Smith immigrants this line has an undoubted historical tracing back to colonial days and emerges so historically clear as is shown by the numerous references.

The compiler realizes the incompleteness in many families here set forth which it is hoped every person who is able will remedy by sending to him corrections and additions while he is able to make them: its many typographical errors may be attributed to what he did do but knew better, and to what he did do and didn't know better, as many palpable mistakes occur when cutting stencils and trying to think several ways at once with no chance to proof-read; also in the Historical pages sequence in classification of matter is grievously disrupted by anxiety to include papers at ónetime rejected.

Therefore to whatever chaotic conditions are found we answer: We have done our best in this beginning compilation to be historical exact in subject matter, inclusive of interesting archives, and we devoutly hope future efforts from us all will produce a worthwhile Genealogy of our beloved ancestral line.

SOME SOURCES OF DATA IN THIS GENEALOGY.

The compiler cannot feel too grateful to the Rev.William M. Newton who,in his "History of Barnard,Vt." prints the researches of Dr.Gardner Cox who from probably some of the histories named and not named in this Genealogy thaces the line from Richard (but overlooked his father,John),born about 1625 in England to his enterance at or near Boston,then westward to Lancaster,Mass.,then southerly as cheap,unoccupied land was found down the fertile valley of the Connecticut river and as commerce opened toward other colonista at Lyme,Conn.,as history shows.

Later colonial and Revolutionary war service was paid by cheap land in New Hampshire and Vermont where those hardy pioneers readily went.

Dr.Cox does not follow their steps,but his hasty statement of the family coming first to Lancaster,Mass.,then to Lyme,Conn., gave the clue to early chapbers we needed,since we began the Smith family in a vague tradition which became historical first at Lyme,Conn.

Other histories and persons giving data are often names in their several places. We deeply appreciate their help. We have tried to give reasons for connecting families and not to mislead anyone who may refer to this genealogy.

1-1 JOHN SMITH of Lancaster,Mass.;
b.prob.in England about 1600; d.July 16,1669,Lancaster,Mass.;

The "Early Records (or Annals) of Lancaster,Mass." seem to give the most concise and authentic tracing making fairly clear the foregoing and following facts:

Page 286. "John Smith,father of Richard and Ann,wife of John Moore,came from Dudbury,Mass.,with wife Mary,who died 27-10mo-1659,Lancaster,Mass.; in 1660 he gave the intervale lot to John and Ann Moore" etc.

Page 287."May 2,1669,John Smith transfers all his estate (in Lancaster) to John Moore with this condition: Now in my old age I being old and infirmyou keep me"etc.

Pages 286 and 322. John's will dated Apr.12,1665,names John-Richard- Ann and Alice,as children.

The "History of Sudbury,Mass.,1638-1889," by Hudson,p.53 states. John Smith here 1647; was assigned a lot; may have been an early settler of Watertown,Mass.,or relative of one by that name.

The "Genealogical History of Watertown,Mass.," by Bond,states; "John Smith,Jr.,(Sr.and Jr.often refer to uncle and nephew,-AMS) was a free man there May 22,1639; and in the earliest list of proprietors were,John,Sr.,John,Jr.,Thomas and Francis."(The history also tells of Isabel,wife of John,Sr.,dying Oct.12,1669,aged 60,which John may well be connected with John of Lancaster,Mass.

"Cutter's History of Conn.," Vol.2,p.1053 discusses many John Smiths, Richard Smiths and others in and around Lancaster,Mass., taken prob.from the above and other histories; out of the confusion seems to emerge the idea of a John Smith of Lancaster,Mass. having a will which named his son Richard Smith who removed to Lancaster,married in Boston the widow Johanna Quarles,and they having two sons,John,b.Feb.20,1656,and Francis,b.Aug.26,1657 and perhaps other children. Richard and John settled in Lyme,Conn., where John had a son Quarles which is significant for there was no other person of that name in the vacinity save the widow mentioned above.

From these and other sources we feel warranted to expect this John Smith to have come from England before 1639 to the vacinity of Boston,Mass.,gone to Watertown,Mass.,drifted westward thru Sudbury to Lancaster,Mass.,where he died; that his son Richard m.2nd in Boston,the widow Quarles,moved to Lyme,Conn.,and had a son John who had a son Quarles,-all of which is emphasized by the town clerk of Lyme (William Marvin) not knowing the history but finding before 1926 from land records a John Smith with brothers James,Henry and Francis (named in histories as such) with nine children,among them a Quarles,and from which time we can trace with surety. So we proceed with the following saying the above John Smith of Lancaster,Mass.,- m._ MARY __who died Oct.27,1659,Lancaster,Mass.; and his will named 4 children; (List not in order of birth.)

(2-1)John Smith. b._

(2-2)Richard Smith.b.about 1625;m.Mary (_),-Joanna Quarlls.

(2-3)Ann Smith, b._ m.John Moore.

2-1 JOHN SMITH,(John),b._ d._

In Worcester Co.,Mass.,History by Hurd,Vol.1,p.6,among the subscribers to "orders" in Jan.15,1653 for Lancaster,Mass.,town organization which was done Aug.18,1653 were Richard Smith and John Smith.

In "Early Records (or Annals) of Lancaster,Mass.,Richard and John were often mentioned; they had homes; but we find no marriage of John. (We must add these names are numerous so may not be of this family.)

2-2 RICHARD SMITH,(John),b.about 1625,in England; d._1701,Lyme,Conn.;

In "Early Records (or Annals) of Lancaster,Mass.," p.20 is the signature of Richard Smith."He was one of several to help get a corn-mill in 1653;" among others to petition for a township in 1654; He drew a parcel of land; (Deeds were not often recorded about 1652 tho there was a law for it). Page 285.Richard Smith deeded his dwelling house and 20 acres of house lot to William Kerley,June 4,1658; "Richard Smith was of Sudbury,Mass.,son of John,and appears in 1656 among the proprietors of Groton,Mass., but perhaps didnot reside there,tho he disappears from Lancaster

m.1st,MARY __who with her infant died Mar.27,1654. (Mass. m.2nd,Aug.10,(on p.320 it reads June 2),1654,"same year Mary died" in Boston,Mass.,Widow JOANNA QUARLLS,by whom he had in Lancaster,Mass.,John and Francis," therefore,-

Rev.William M.Newton's "History of Barnard,Vt.,"(which all lovers of history will like to read) prints the never before published papers which were carefully prepared,we do not know from what authority,by Dr.Gardner Cox of Holyoke,Mass.,8-3806,in Vol. 2,p.330. Dr.Cox begins with Richard Smith,son of John,and brings his descendants down to 1925,as appears in this genealogy from that work. We quote from it the following extracts relative to

W.M.N.

Richard Smith:"born about 1625,in England; d.1701,Lyme,Conn.;

8 children;(Of the 8 named by Dr.Cox in Newton's His.of Barnard Vt.,we may expect 3,Richard,Elizabeth and the Infant to be by Mary,the 1st wife,-A.M.S.)

3-12 The Infant (Mary).
5 children by Widow Susanna Quarles,2nd wife;

3-100 Marie Moore,b.Sept.4,1655.
From the land records of Lyme,Conn.,the town cherk,William Marvin(a relative of Mary,4-106)who knows the records thoroughly was sure of the following list of Smith relatives who had their land in the vacinity of "4 Mile Stream"which flows south at the western side of the present town of East Lyme,Conn.; e may be able to get the records of their births,deaths and marriages when the records get back from being photographed. This data was very kindly given the compiler by him Sept.25,1926.
Dr.Gardner Cox carries on only Francis Smith,3-14.

3-13 JOHN SMITH,(Richard,John),b._ d._
He had at least 3 brothers,James,Henry and Francis.

4-109 John Smith,Jr.

3-14 FRANCIS SMITH,(Richard,John); Dr.Cox in Newton's His. of Barnard,Vt.,says he married about 1688 and had 3 children;

4-106 Sergt.SAMUEL SMITH,(John,Richard,John),b._1695,Lyme, Conn.; d.June 18,1737,in the 42nd year of his age,and is buried in "The Stone Church Burial Ground,"East Lyme,Conn. (See cemetery Records,this book;.also Rev.Eleazer Smith in Historical Sec)

Regarding the title of Sergt.,the compiler wrote Oct._1926 to Charles R.Hale,chairman of committee on marking graves for Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil war,Hartford,Conn.,who replied the 30thas follows: "Sergt.Samuel Smith was born in 1695. He was too young fot the Queen Ann War,1704-11. The next was what was known as the Veteran Indian war 1723 and only a few were in the service from Connecticut. I do not find his name among them and he died just before the next war,England-Spain 1739.

During the time he lived we had trained bands and he must have been a member of one of those. Sorry I cannot get a war service for him."

We have no documentary evidence of Miriam being being the daughter of Sergt.Samuel Smith; but she seems linked with the Smith-Gee-Huntley,and Beckwith families in Lyme,Conn.,and after the death of her husband followed them to Marlow,N.H.,1765; Her b. fits in the family of Sergt.Samuel,so we venture to place her here m.Nov.13,1740,_ DANIEL BECKWITH,b.Oct.26,1704,Lyme,Conn.; d.Nov.10,1762,Lyme,Conn.; He was a farmer and Baptist minister in Lyme,Conn.

"The Beckwiths",a genealogy by Paul Beckwith,tracing the family from William the Conqueror,is said by Mrs.Lora A (Woodbury) Underhill of 122 Park St.,Suit 2,Brookline,Mass.,in Mar.21,1927 to"be a fraud throughout,and "The Beckwith Notes" (a lesser book) to be but little better is full of mistakes. Your line (AMS) in"Beckwith Notes" is:Daniel-5.Rev.Eleazer,-4.Daniel,-3.Joseph,-2.Nathaniel,-1.Matthew Beckwith. It may not be right," and Mrs. Rebecca B.Beckwith,9-1004,traces it differently.

The sketch in"The Beckwiths"about Daniel is brief and seems to be right; from him his children are traced by Mr.E.A.Jones,a careful historian in Marlow,N.H.,in a letter to Dr.D.B.Smith, 9-3803,as follows:

Marlow,N.H.,March 23,1892.

Dr.D.B.Smith,Plainfield,Vt.;
Dear Sir:- Your letter has been handed me by the town clerk for an answer. This town is very fruitful for Beckwith genealogy, something like twenty of the name being taxed from 1767 to 1820 but much of their records would have to come from individuals as town records are very deficient in recording early families.

To the best of our knowledge Widow Beckwith (Miriam Smith) from Lyme,Conn.,came to this town,or Acworth,with four sons,Amon,Amos, Eleazer,Ira,and one sister,leaving two brothers,Truman and Titus in Lyme. Amon,Eleazer and sister settled in Marlow,Ira in Acworth, and Amos in Danville (it was Sutton) Vt.

Eleazer was the minister referred to. He settled as pastor of the Baptist church here Nov.9,1781,was dismissed at his own request Mar.13,1799,and recommended to the church at Unity,N.H., where he was installed Mar.8,1800 and preached until his death Apr.16,1808,aged 67. (The Beckwiths" have it aged 60,is wrong)

Of Eleazer's family I can tell you but little now; taking the names as you give them I find Eleazer,Jr.taxed first 1804; Dudley 1809; Abner 1809;No Seth appears on the tax list. The marriages of Eleazer Jr.,and Abner are given I think.

Another branch here early was Jason; several of his descendants are hereabouts. Zilpah Beckwith,dau.of Abner and Mehitable (Smith)Beckwith,b.Jan.1,1800;(He must be wrong.See Harris Beckwith 8-1209) Dec.4,1806 Eleazer Beckwith,Jr.,married Dorcas Alexander of Acworth,N.H.; Dudley B. married Matilda Brockway (or Brockley,letters not plain,A.M.S.)Oct.16,1807; Amos married Matilda Beckwith,dau.of Jason,b.Feb.14,1790; Amos B.,son of Amon and Sarah,b.Feb.28,1785; Charles B.,son of Amon and Sarah, born June 3,1790. Respectfully yours,E.A.Jones."

From "The Beckwiths",Mr.E.A.Jones,and letters yellow with age, (1780) we make this list of children,b.Lyme,Conn.,but not in order

5-205 SILAS SMITH,(Samuel,John,Richard,John),b._1722, Lyme,Conn.; d.Jan.8,1777,Lyme,Conn.,aged 55 yrs.,at his home.
Beginning with Silas the compiler has the records of names, births,deaths and marriages of the line down to 1867 copied from original records by his gr.father,Alven Smith.

The historical section of this Genealogy gives a copy of Silaes' will and inventory of his estate; it tells of his being a deacon in Elder Lee's Baptist church; of his catching the camp-fever,or dysentery,of his son Abner who was in the battle of White Plains, and died; The cemetery records tells of his grave.

m._ Miss DEBORAH GEE,b.1731,Lyme,Conn.; d.Sept._ 1820,Marlow, N.H.,aged 89 yrs.; dau.of Solomon and Deborah Gee,of Lyme,Conn. (See Gee History and 1-1,close of this Genealogy.)

The following well preserved,tho apparent fragment,of a letter is accredited to her by Dr.D.B.Smith,9-3803,as being written to John Smith,whose name"John"appears on the superscription of the paper which,as was the custom of the times,was its own envelope. If the letter cannot be accredited to her we preserve it here hop-later it can be traced:

6-400 Rev.ELEAZER BECKWITH,(Miriam,Samuel,John,Richard, John),b._1741,Lyme,Conn.: d.Apr.16,1808,Unity,N.H.,aged 67 yrs., (not 60 as "The Beckwiths" has it.) Baptist minister and farmer in Marlow,N.H.,mainly; See letter of E.J.Jones,Marlow,N.H.,historian,in sketch of Miriam Smith,5-204, and Historical Section by D.B.Smith,M.D.,who could easily verify the tracing of his gr.mother,Lucretia Beckwith ,7-204,to her father,the Rev.Eleazer.

Child's His.of Cheshire Co.,N.H.,says:"Rev.Eleazer Beckwith settled over the Baptist church in Marlow,N.H.and it prospered."

A more consecutive history of events is the following,told the compiler by Miss Celeste E.Bush,of Niantic,Conn.,secy.of the East Lyme,Conn.,Historical Society in 1926 and who was told her by the mother of Louise (Smith) Latham,8-2700,a woman of ability and historical interest in the matter;

"After the French and Indian war was over and the treaty of peace signed in 1763 it was safe for English colonists to settle further north,as New Hampshire where land cost only 3q per acre. So several people from Lyme,Conn.,gathered in Elder Lee's Baptist church in Lyme,and organized a town and church to be taken to Marlow,N.H. to settle the town. They took with them a clergyman __ __ but he served only one year upon which Marlow had Eleazer Beckwith back in Lyme,Conn.,ordained there in Elder Lee's old church ,Feb. 15,1782 and sent to them."

This Miss Bush supposed was recorded in town of Marlow,N.H., but E.J.Jones,historian for Marlow,N.H.,says that"while it sounds well from the Lyme,Conn.,end the Marlow town records (as given in New Hampshire Gazetteer by A.J.Fogg,1874) must be read as follows:

"The first town meeting was in March 1776. The town was granted to 70 people,Wm.Noyes and others who are not named. The first settlers were,Joseph Tubbs,Samuel and John Gustin,N.Royce,N.Miller, Nathan Huntley and others.

The first minister was Rev.Caleb Blood,(Baptist) settled in Jan. 1778 and was dismissed 1779. Rev.Eleazer Beckwith succeeded him and preached until his death in 1809." (See E.J.Jones letter in Miriam Smith,5-204,sketch.)

In these and other narrations and histories,tho exactness is missing,we see the general trend and so make a fairly acurate account of this,his marriage and list of children.

(The "Beckwith Notes"give Rev.Eleazer's children as:-Jason-Caroline-Laurena-Mrs.Luman Huntley: To which Mrs.Lora A.(Woodbury) Underhill asks,"Where did they get this list?" We may see why she in the Miriam Smith,5-204,sketch calls "The Beckwiths" and "The Beckwith Notes" inacurate.-A.M.S.)

6-500 JOHN SMITH,(Silas,Sergt.Samuel,John,Richard,John) b.Nov.30,1753,Lyme,Conn.; d.Dec.5,1841,Barre,Vt.;aged 88 yrs.,5 days,on the farm west of So.Barre, (See much about this stirring couple in History Section.)

It was on this farm the compiler has heard his father(David M. Smith) tell of visiting when a small lad and gr.uncle John raising such "great,big water melons over behind the hill west of the buildings;" also of "gr.Grands'r finding he was spreading grass from the swath behind the mowers with a (at that time,rude, clumsy tool)pitchfork which gr.grands's said was too big for a small boy and so made for him a "spreading stick". Few of us have gr.grands'rs to remember.

Jan.11,1922,Ellen Maria (Smith)Upton,9-3904,wrote as follows: "Of gr.grandfather John Smith,I remember being told when I was very young,not over 5,if that,that he was to be buried in the cemetery at Barre,Vt.; I was carried in someone's lap in a sleigh,- I think on my way to the cemetery,but don't remember of seeing a burial. This is all I know of him. (There are several of his relatives buried in "Mowers cemetery"on the hill road so.west part of the town of Barre,Vt.,which in 1926 was sadly neglected as the compiler saw. See Cemetery Records,this book. If it was there his body must have been re-burried in his son Christopher's lot in Williamstown,Vt.,cemetery when that one was opened about 1860 for a marble slab with his name was long seen by the compiler and is now on the monument. See Cem.Records.)

The above marriages are taken from the "State Board of Health" Concord,N.H.,and from "The Native Ministry of New Hampshire" by Rev.N.F.Carter,1905,a book in the N.H.State Library,and from a letter from his son Eleazer (Rev.)whose interesting historical sketch is in the Historical Section; also from D.B.S.also there.

Abner and his mother were executors of his father's estate. The "Revolutionary Rolls and Lists" state that among the troops raised by Connecticut in 1775 was Lieut.Lee Lay's company which was ordered raised by the Council of Safety,Sept.14,1775 and contained sixteen names among whom was that of Abner Smith. They entered into service Oct.20,1775,and when Lieut.Lee Lay's pay roll for the soldiers of Lyme,Conn.,was settled in 1776 Abner Smith was credited with sixty-four days.

6-504 RUSSEL SMITH,(Silas,Samuel,John,Richard,John), b._1763(?),Lyme,Conn.; d.Aug.26,1824,aged 61 yrs.,Lempster,N.H.

He was a prosperous farmer in Lempster,N.H.,living in a large, two story house,spacious and imposing for those days,surrounded by a good farm located on the right side of the road reached by going from Lempster "Green",or "Street",hotel north to the lower end of the village,by a big tannery,now burned,owned by Alvah Smith (nobe we suppose of the Lyme,Conn.,Smiths),then east over a mile,two and one-half miles in all. (See Historical Section by Dr.D.B.Smith.). His son Daniel succeeded him.

The family Bible and records being burned when the old homestead was destroyed by fire,much of this data was given from memory by his gr.daughter Martha R.Lewis,8-2205,and some was taken from gazetteers,while older people contributed the rest.

The following letter from Russel Smith to Abner Smith at Marlow,N.H.,about 1799,Dr.D.B.Smith thinks,is faded,worn and patched:

6-1000 ELIAS SMITH,(Stephen,Hezekiah,Francis,Richard, John),b.June 17,1769,_d.June 29,1846,Lynn,Mass.;
(This data from Dr.Gardner Cox,in Newton's His.of Barnard,Vt.)
When Elias was 18 yrs.of age he taught school in So.Woodstock, Vt.,for $1 per week and boarded around. (In homes having children proportionate to number in school.-A.M.S.) He could enumerate three figures and was nearly as proficient in a few of the classics.  Elias was the noisy one of the family and few men were better known;  He had extraordinary talent which if better directed would have made his name immortal.  saw visions and dreamed dreams;  committed everything to memory  whole theological works and the New Testament,retaining his memory until 70 yrs.of age.

He tramped from Maine to Virginia,preaching and explaining in the Christian church until it was said that no ten men did more than he and his brother Uriah to establish that denomination.

He had a printing press which he moved about thru N.H.,Maine, Philadelphia and back again. He was ordained 1792 and settled as pastor in Lee and Woburn,Mass.,Portsmouth,N.H.,and other places; wrote several works; was a rapid writer and was seldom without a pencil. People loved him,but the clergy feared him as he could repeat by heart what they had to hunt for. The clergy said Dr.Shepard,Elias Smith and the devil were calculated to do more harm than any three criminals out of jail owing to their liberal interpretation of the Bible.

7-1001 Matthew Hale Smith,b._1810; d._N.Y.city.

He was a typical son of his father with all the laws of heredity thrown in: preacher,lawyer,editor (writing under the name "Burleigh",his mother's maiden name),politician,business man. He began where his father left off and preached Universalism,then Presbyterianism,Episcopalianism and then Baptism, after which he wrote a book giving his reasons for changing.

He wrote "Sunshine and Shadows of N.Y.city" which had an extensive sale."

(The data for this line is from Dr.Gardner Cox in Newton's His. of Barnard,Vt.,Vol.2, to whom we feel grateful for its preservation and unique expression.-A.M.S.)

"Elias,Uriah and Richard Ransom Smith,three sons of Stephen and Irene (Ransom) Smith,were all noted for their phenominal memories; They could repeat practically the whole of the New Testament by heart. There was no subject upon which they could not quote,off hand,columes of Scripture to prove either side of a question.

Uriah was a preacher in the Christian church and less eratic than his brothers; was a good reader and singer,so hymns had a new interpretation,and preached in three states and nineteen towns; baptized 200 people; organized many churches; was much loved; let Elias do the running around,so was pastor of Woodstock Vt.,church seven yrs.; was ingenious with tools.

"Richard was ordained a Baptist minister at Conway,N.H.,about 1793. He ascended the scale to Universalism and canvassed the country for that denomination; after he was convinced that everyone else was convinced he settled in So.Woodstock,Vt.,as a goldsmith. (Mrs.Harvey Beckwith,Jr.,wonders why he went there,
Among the old letters which the compiler inherited from his uncle,Dr.D.B.Smith,9-3803,the historian of the family,was one from Seth Beckwith,written on the usual large sheet,about 8 X 11,so folded as to seal with the usual red sealing-wax,and superscribed on the outside,middle fold of paper,using no envelope. On the outside fold appears also postmarks from Stanbridge,Oct.22 on one side and on the other the P.O.marks,Montreal,Oct.23,1846,L C (which means Lower Canada,Prov.Quebec,-A.M.S.) also the P.O.mark St.Johns,L.C.,Oct.,showing the rout of the letter. Again the genealogist rejoices in unraveling the tangles which years and separate localities produce.

The compiler has letters from Mrs.Harvey (Rebecca) B.Beckwith, Jr.,9-1004,written 1892 to Dr.D.B.Smith,9-3803,in which she puzzles with the inacuracies of "The Beckwiths"which gives no ancestry to Amos and does give his birth as 1730 instead of 1754; but it does give some tracing as: "It was his son John who was the father of Judge Beckwith of Chicago,"etc. It gives no account of John's wife or of their children other than the "Judge" and to allude to him as Corydon,b.July 24,1823.

The compiler approached this family from an entirely different source thru Mrs.Nellie L.(Joy) Bartlett,9-2000,gr.daughter of John Beckwith and wife Matilda Shaw and got the names of John Beckwith's children among whom she named Corydon,b.July 24,1823, and calls him a distinguished lawyer in Chicago,Ill.; The compiler also has the writing of E.A.Jones,the Marlow,N.H.historian, that Amos was the son of Daniel Beckwith and Miriam Smith,(see 5-204); Lastly after these pages were printed first,more data is sent by Mabel A.Beckwith,(Charles F.-Truman,John,7-224)who gives his data from "our genealogy"corroborating the others so now we may place Amos,6-406,and his line in this connection and future genealogists will ignore our struggle.

John Beckwith,7-224,of Sutton,Vt.,was a farmer and Free Baptist.

7-301 CHRISTOPHER SMITH,(John,Silas,Sergt.Samuel,-John, Richard,John),b.Dec.28,1775,Lyme,Conn.; d.Jan.14,1867,Williamstown, Vt.,aged 91 yrs.; his home.

Christopher's parents moved from Lyme,Conn.,to Marlow,N.H.,about 1779,he being about three yrs.old. His parents later bought a farm in Lempster,a town adjoining,probably for pasturing (it was good for little else) to which farm Christopher went at marriage and remained a number of years,then back to the Marlow farm (showing good sense) and in 1812 moved to Williamstown,Vt.,for all of which read Historical Section by D.B.S.

Christopher was a thrifty farmer,influential as an officer and financial supporter of the Universalist church helping build it, also of the Social library (one of the few excellent early libraries of the day),and was a substantial citizen.

After retiring from the farm,we do not know when but Apr.1,1851 he "let it"as the expression was to Emory Gale making a long written agreement which the compiler now has among many other old, old papers and letters,he bought the house at the top of the little rise north of the new village cemetery which he helped buy and in which he bought the first lot in and close to which,he and so many of his relatives are buried.

Annie (Martin) Wilber (9-856 in George Martin of Salisbury,Mass. Genealogy by Dr.E.B.Watson and A.M.S.)states she has seen six generations in his family: First was Christopher coming over to the near-by cemetery leaning on his cane,having snow-white hair ,then Alven,David M.,Alven M.,John B.,David M.;(In this connection it is interesting to note that the compiler's cousin's husband,Walter E.Gtanger,70 yrs.old,states he bids fair to see seven in his line for he was a 10 yr.old boy when he well remembers see his gr.grand father,and his sister has a gr.daughter 19 yrs.old..When we remember that most of our generation are the 9th in this country, to see 6 or 7 makes us a link between the past and present which we must value in the knowledge of our gr.parents telling that their gr.parents said this or that of their knowledge of early history.

The appraisal of his estate shows a marked decrease in his retirement from its one time value,and also what seems to us in this day a minuteness in values worth noticing,as follows:

m. LUCRETIA BECKWITH,7-204,b.May 12,1782,Marlow,N.H.; d.Mar.9, 1857,Williamstown,Vt.; dau.of Rev.Eleazer and Hannah (Lewis) Beckwith. That Lucretia was the dau.of Rev.Eleazer Beckwith is evident from the history of Rev.Eleazer as given by E.A.Jones and others,and by contemporary events and persons,aside from her gr. Dr.D.B.Smith who with the instinct of a historian and chance to know,believed it.

Among the letters yellow with age and fragile with handling, preserved by Dr.D.B.Smith and now in possession of the compiler, his nephew, is one not signed but declared from the contents at least, by Dr.D.B.Smith to be one from Lucretia (Beckwith) Smith shortly after Jan.1,1857 as she died Mar.9,1857, and it is addressed to Mehitable Beckwith, (Mehitable (Smith) Beckwith), her husbamd's sister. The letter follows:

7-303 MEHITABLE SMITH,(John,Silas,Sergt.Samuel,-John, Richard,John),b.Nov.25,1778,or 1779,Lyme,Conn.; d._ 1854,Rochester,Vt.;

m._ ABNER BECKWITH,7-202,b.Apr.15,1777,prob.Marlow,N.H.; d.Oct, 9,1847,_ son of Rev.Eleazer and Hannah(Lewis) Beckwith,and so bro. of Christopher's,7-301,wife.

They bought and moved onto a farm one-half way between Rochester and Stockbridge,Vt.,Apr.1,1839 according to a letter Mehitable wrote Christopher Smith. They went to Glens Falls,N.Y.,before Jan.5,1846,and by Zilpha's letter June 8,1846 they were back in Vt. the previous winter. Apparently Mehitable went to Glens Falls again but returned to Vt. She seems to have been the letter writer of that generation and many letters have come down to us telling of distress and affliction.

From Mehitable's letters we may infer these eleven children but not in order we name them nor correctness of name or number; besides this the compiler tried in vain to reach her descendants whom he read of in the daily papers and at last thru his brother-in-law,Julius D.Blackmer,he was refered to Mr.Fred Whittier who was interested to pass the matter to the latter's daughter Etta, (Mrs.Arland W.Purington,11-7400) who has faithfully collected a mass of information for which we wish to express our appreciation od her interest and efforts. One letter tho hastily written,is so full of help along this line,and so needed to tell of those children that we feel it no breach of confidence to print it:

Dear Mr.Smith; Bethel,Vt.,January 7,1926.

I worked all day yesterday on the papers I am sending you and am at it again this morning. I hope it doesn't take you as long to read it all.

Since your name is Smith I want to ask who you are now that I have told you who we all are.

I don't believe any of our relatives whom we know can give any information of Abner Beckwith. I had Uncle Frank send a few dates from Hancock,Vt.,from my gr.mother's Bible and that was the first I had been sure who Abner Beckwith and Mehitable Smith were,they being my gr.mother's gr.mother and gr.father,which is one more generation further back than any of those living to-day could remember. No one knew of Abner Beckwith living in Rochester,Vt. They all believed Harris Beckwith to have moved to Rochester,Vt., from Littleton,N.H.,I think they said. (Tho Littleton is further north than Lempster,Harris may have been there,and Mrs.Purinton may have confused the names.-A.M.S.)

James Beckwith,10-4205,tells me that he always understood that some of the Beckwiths married a cousin by the name of Beckwith and he thought it was Harris. (See 8-1209,-A.M.S.)

Father could not remember about Harris'brothers and sisters until I read those names you sent me. When I mentioned Fielding he says he remembers well oh his mother speaking of her uncle Fielding. He also thinks he has heard her speak Kneeling,Lucinda, Truman and Abner: these are probably Harris'brothers and sisters as you have them. He has heard the name Whitaker and Sterlings well but cannot tell who they were.**

Sincerely yours,

(Etta Whittier) Mrs.Arland W.Purinton.

A characteristic letter among others from Mehitable (Smith)

Beckwith filled with comments and meditations,is the following written May 12,-but she never tells the year,which in this case must be after her bro.Christopher sold his farm(we have his agreement "lettin it" 1851) and probably some time after her husband Abner died 1847,as she does not mention him and always did when living. It is written from Glens Falls,N.Y.,to Christopher Smith and Lucretia Smith as follows:

"My dear Brother and sister I received your letter yesterday Sterling (8-1207,A.M.S.)has sold his place and mooved to troy they sent the Letter up to me I was verry glad to hear from you And should be so happy if I could meat you to Lempster Once more I should be over joyed to see you all once more But I do not see it any way probable that I can come there Zeruah,(8-1203,-A.M.S.) rote me she had the promes of coming over this summer it may be I can havea chance to com with her I have not seen her for more than five years for two winters she Never went out doors her lungs was so bad they all had the measles and was verry sick her health is better I suppose you have heard harris beckwith has bought a farm in hancock five miles from whers he used to live iherd he is doing verry well but his health in poor cant work but part of a day at atime hard work and old age is wareing us all out ifelt verry glad when I heard you had let your farm out But should like to hear you had sold it so not to have the care of it I have no care but my Mind that is as much as I can git along with my mind gous all round to my brothers and sisters and children But ihave a good home and are all good to me but that dosc not make up the Loose of friends but how pleasant it is to see our friends hear on earth in our old age before we enter the Sperit land to part no more I hope you will come over and see us if I Do not come over their my best love to all Mehitable Beckwith"

It is to be regretted that none of Her letters have been preserved; but her relatives and friends speak well of her, and her home was in Lempster, N.H. What a change one century has made!

"Sweet Auburn; lovliest village of the plain!"

may not be applicable but Lempster, like many a New England town of one hundred years ago was in the height of her glory. It flourished in producing people who influenced the country in agriculture, in religion and in the joys and welfare of humanity. Twenty clergymen, eight of them Universalist, arose from its ranks. Nichols Hotel was known far and near and was presided over by its owner, "Troop" Nichols. Now the town's prestige has fled, and quiet sleeps over those old homes as it does over the final resting-places of those sturdy owners. We of a later generation scarcely visit them, and if we do, pause to express the sentiment due our ancestors and their heroic lives of rigerous service.

Sleep on, ye forbears, snug within your granite hills ; some of us have sought you out and picked a daisy that grew and nodded in gentle breeze above your quiet graves; later the ravages of time will moss and level our more costly grave-stones until we, like you, will have no visitors of kin or race, and the meaning of Eternity be made clear to all.

* The compiler feels it a hallowed pilgrimage when one Sunday he with other Universalist pastors held services in the little chapel near the cemetery and wandered among the graves of unknown relatives. "Man cannot live upon bread alone."

He was a farmer in Marlow,N.H.,in Barre,Vt.,and his last yrs. in Lempster,N.H.; was the last one of the family living Jan.1867.
Following the history by D.B.S.,of Christopher's,7-301,going to Williamstown,Vt.,we find his father John,Sr.,had left Marlow, N.H.,and was in Williamstown,Vt.,leaving his sister Amy (mentally weak we suppose from childhood) in Marlow,N.H. John paid for her maintainance in Lyme,Conn.,and Marlow,N.H.,as we find from receipts now held by A.M.S.,and we shall see kept her with him,providing for her in Barre,Vt.,on the darm owned by his son John.
Two letters from John,Jr.,7-306,make history,business and education of those days very real to us tho the yellowed paper,folded to be its own envelope,red seal,funny writing,capitalizing,paragraphing or lack of paragraphing,spelling,etc.,must be seen to be appreciated.
This one is superscribed in large,firm letters,well formed,and a credit in any day,tho lacking the finish we usually find in experienced writers of to-day. It is sent to Mr John Smith Williamstow Vt

8-1402 Lenda Matilda Smith,b.about 1820; d.after 1876,and outlived her husband. We have two letters by her,the first Mar.2, 1860,(before her marriage)written to her cousin,"Hon.Alven Smith"and the second of July 2,1876 filled with history to Alven's son,Dr.D.B.Smith,written in a fine,perfect hand,full of affection and information. We copy most of it in the Historical Section m.after Mar.2,1860, ALDEN B.SABIN,2nd wife, who was a leading farmer in Lempster,N.H.,and and citizen in active association with Judge Alvah Smith (not any of the Lyme Conn.,Smiths),the tanner. Rev.Eleazer Smith,a M.E.clergyman and man of unusual ability and stiring,rugged character,preached his first sermon at Lyndon Vt.,Sept.29,1827. He was stationed at the largest churches in Vt.and New Hampshire,as at St.Johnsbury,Lyndon,Danville,Montpelier,Chelsea,in Vt.,and Hanover,Claremont,Dover,Concord,Portsmouth,Great Falls,and others in N.H.; was chaplain of Vt.House of Representatives 1839-40 and chaplain of New Hampshire States prison,Concord,N.H.,1846-55,and 1872-8; published a book,"Nine Years among the Convicts" in 1855 which can be obtained at the N.H.State Library,Concord,N.H. (See His.Section).

The compiler has a letter written to his uncle,Dr.D.B.Smith by the Rev.Eleazer Smith which is reproduced in the Historical Section of this book. It is filled with narative and history as he believed of the Smiths from the time of coming from England to the day he was writing; a letter filled with fact,sentiment and religious belief,well expressed in terms of affection and reverence; it must be read to be appreciated,and well will it be with us to leave so good an impression to our descendants.

7-605 DANIEL MYRICK SMITH,(Russel,Silas,Samuel,John, Richard,John),b.Mar.27,1796,Lempster,N.H.; d.Mar.9,1872,Lempster, N.H.; Daniel M.Smith lived on his father's farm and was an enterprising farmer and sheep breeder. He often served the town as justice of the peace and administered many estates. He and Judge Alvah Smith,the tanner (but no relative)were in the State House as representatives and senators,and on the Executive Council.

Daniel,a Universalist in faith,but having no church of his own was staunch and active in the M.E.church and was a leader of the Democratic party,-as was Alvah Smith in the Congregational church and the Republican party. Daniel was somewhat lame and carried a cane in his later years,maintaining an erect,proud bearing, which was noticable when entering church a little late,using the cane to punctuate every step.

He was an excellent composer of English,and also an unusually good penman as his letters in the hands of the compiler to-day show; tho his writing in large,even,firm,and very plain letters cannot be reproduced,the copy of some may be found in the Historical Section of this book.

His daughter,Martha Lewis,relates that the teachers were in the habit of sending her brothers and sisters to her father to have him write special pieces to speak at the last day of school or special celebrations rather than select one already written. Also she said that for them,the sons and daughters,school never closed; when the term of school was finished thair father assigned them lessons and heard them recite at close of day or when he returned from a journey. Their mother didnot approve of this but adhered to the expectations,saying,"Yes,you may play after you have got your lessons."

Mr.Azel Richard Emerson,of Alstead,N.H.,on his ninety-ninth birth-day,Dec.29,1921,told the compiler of being hired at about twenty yrs.of age by Daniel M.Smith who was one of the school committee,to keep the school at Lempster "Street". In those days the committee examined the applicant (the town Supt.did when the compiler "kept school") and gave the teacher's license. I asked Mr.Emerson,"What questions did he ask you?""Well sir,"was the answer,"He showed ma a lot of letters (alphabet)and asked me, 'What do you do with them?';'What are they?'; 'What are they for?' He said I could have the school and gave me a paper to Mr.Dudley also a committeeman (lived at the top of the hill,Lemster Mountain,where Mr.I.H.Hodgman lived when I climbed the mountain to see the old homestead,1921, see Historical Section) who said: "I don't want to ask you any questions if Smith has been through you." But I urged him to ask me a question,and he asked, 'How do you form a passive verb?'" We may expect the aged Mr.Emerson's grammar was a little rusty,or Mr.Dudley's schooling faulty,but it brings to mind the days of conscientious struggle by rugged minds.

Mrs.Rebecca B.Beckwith was much interested in genealogy and wrote several letters to Dr.D.B.Smith,9-3303,in 1892 which fortunately came to the compiler to now use. She copied pages of "The Beckwiths" to which she added all we have of the data on her husband's families since then,and her writing was a marvel of legibility,fine,even letters,properly spelled and punctuated. The compiler tried to find the mass of data she collected in 1921 and after much writing learned "her sister Mrs.John Sims (Wilma B.) of Bustleton,Penn.,sent the papers seven years before when Rebecca died,to Mrs.Fannie (Bigelow) Ward,a niece of Harvey Beckwith at 41 So.Stone Ave.,LaGrange, Ill.,and Mrs.Ward wrote the compiler Dec.9,1921 that she sent them to Mrs.Mary Perkins Dauler,a gr.daughter of Charlton Beckwith who lived somewhere in Ohio,and perhaps Mrs.Sims knew where."(!) (The trials and sorrows of a genealogist,-are many)

Helen (Smith) Upton,9-3904,wrote the compiler that about 1892 Mrs.Harvey (Rebecca B.)Beckwith hunted her out in Chicago,Ill. and they kept up a correspondence for quite a while. She seemed to have plenty of money.

Mrs.Rebecca B.Beckwith,9-1004,found "this entry in 'The Beckwiths"but didnot seem to make the connection which now is obvious: "Removed to Chicago,Ill.,1853; Judge of Illinois State Supreme Court 1863; General Solicitor C.A.and S.L.R. m.Oct.16,1817,_HOLLIS ROBERTS,St.Johnsbury Center,Vt.;b.Nov.11, 1787,_ They were farmers and Universalists at St.Johnsbury Center, Vt.,but no more data can be found.

It is worthy of note that when the compiler was searching for data of this branch of the family he found an old letter among Dr.D.B.Smith's,9-3803,old family archives that made him think it a clue to their whereabouts. It was written to Christopher Smith 7-301,Williamstown,Vt.,as follows:

"St.Johnsbury(Center,Vt.,-AMS)July 7,1859.

Dear Uncle, I write to inform you of Fathers death he died last week Tuesday he was not sick much he had a bad cold & had the Phthisic some which he had not had for a long time Sunday he was not verry well monday he was quite unwell monday night he was taken worse with a pain in his stomach & bowels but they gave him something that relieved him and in the morning he was better so that he went out doors but was taken worse in the afternoon & died that night about 12 oclock they sent for me that day but it was so late before I got there that I stopped to Mr,Beckwiths but it made no difference for he would not have known me he was burried thursday Mothers health is as good as usual I think she has lost her faculties much more than Father had I think he retained them very well for a man of his age Mother wished me to write to you & I should have written before but I was gone 2 days & have boarders & I have found so much to do when I got home & Monday was the fourth of July & Gov.Fairbanks gave all the school children in town an invitation to go to the Plain (St.Johnsbury village,Main St.was then called "The Plains",-A.M.S.) & he provided dinner for them & then gave them a free ride on the cars (The R.R.had been recently built,-A.M.S.) & so I went to see them there was 500 schollars that formed the procession I live here all alone in my house only I have 3 boarders just now my health is verry good give my respects to your children

Your Neice Polly Roberts"

The letter was postmarked "St.Johnsbury Center,Vt." The postmaster at Sutton,Vt.,wrote the compiler Dec.5,1921,that"Mr.Corydon Parker of that village,a man between eighty and ninety yrs. of age says that his grandfather was Jacob Shaw and his grandmother Sally,or Sarah,Shaw; that he had an aunt by the name of Polly who married a Roberts and lived in St.Johnsbury Center,Vt.; He has a brother Lewis living now in Vermont. Later the compiler failing to get a letter from Lewis whom he discovered lived at Windsor,Vt.,visited there but found Lewis,9-3403,had recently died. His son was there as these records show but the family will not answer letters. E children,b.St.Johnsbury Center,Vt.;

Corydon told the compiler that in his early boyhood his father signed notes with his sister Corilla's husband and had them to pay,so Corydon had none of his father's money but worked out from ten yrs.of age.

He was of a ctocky build,wore a full beard,was am intelligent farmer; never used tobacco,liquor or drugs (neither did his bro.Lewis); was a grand juryman,a staunch Republican tho he voted both times for Woodrow Wilson,and while he was a cousin of Hosea Parker who was president of the Universalist convention and U.S.senator in N.H.,Corydon was a strong type,Freewill Baptist whom the compiler heard offer an intelligent "blessing" at table,dinner time. Corydon tried to enlist in Vivil war but was rejected because of bad teeth.

Corydon and his second wife moved from an 150 acre,good farm,to a small one in the village,Sutton,Vt.,where she tenderly cared for him,and where the compiler found them on his genealogical travels June 1,1922. Mr.Parker walked to the post office a few days before his death and was in bed but twelve hours,death being caused by a cancerous ailment.

8-1000 ALVEN SMITH,(Christopher,John,Silas,Samuel, John,Richard,John),b.Nov.6,1800,Lempster,N.H.; d.Apr.28,1876, Williamstown,Vt.,aged 76.

Alven Smith lived in Lempster,N.H.,until twelve years of age (see Historical Section by D.B.S.) when his parents moved to Williamstown,Vt.; at marriage he settled on the farm one mile from the village on the direct Williamstown-Berlin-Northfield road,a small (now white) house,north-west side of the road,built in early days; and here his son Marcus lived and died, and Marcus' son Neal is now living(1931). The house then devoid of an "ell"which was added later,consisted like most houses built in settlement days,of three principal roome surrounding a big chimney in the center of the house; a kitchen(a small bedroom opening into it),a sittingroom and a parlor,each of the three rooms having an ample fireplace opening into it; The kitchen fireplace was two feet deep,three and one-half long in which wood of little worth in those days gave a roaring flame.

The "brick oven" was here on the right side of the firepàce in most cases,three feet from the floor,a cavern two feet wide, twenty inches high and four ft.long,in which wood was burned to coals,then raked out and the space filled with pots of beans, brown-bread,pies,puddings,meats,all of which in an hour or two had a flavor that only such heat in a brick oven" could produce.

The compiler's generation can well remember as children those occasions when the Thanksgiging feast was prepared and the magic invitation went over snow-clad hills,thru whitened valleys,bidding

Come uncles and cousins,come nieces and aunts;
Come nephews and brothers,no wonts and no cants;
Put shopping and school-books,and farmwork away,
The year has rolled round,and 'tis Thanksgiving day."

Those old brick ovens have followed for most part,the happy band they called together of whom to-day we may say with Longfellow's "Old Clock on the Stair"

"All are scattered now and fled;Some are married,some are dead"

for with ungrateful,unsentimental sacrilege the generation we represent often helped tear down the chimneys in days of affluence and change and "the old brick oven" is only a memory. Its (the chimney)space was converted into a sleeping room perhaps ten feet square,where the "old folks"slept long and well in spite of sanitary laws demanding light and air. In the "ell" built later to our grandpa's house a brick oven was constructed,and it lies there in hidden seclusion to-day.

In this house are to-day many of the old ancestral relics reaching back to great,great,grandfather John's shoe-bench which his master sent to England for when John completed his apprenticeship as a shoemaker. this in the light of the youngest generation as the compilers gr.son,makes the latter say should he look at the old bench: "My gr.gr.gr.gr.grandfather used that clumsy thing." And the compiler has something of the old gentleman's using that is far from being clumsy or outgrown; they are his WEDDING STOCKINGS,and a finer,neater pair are seldom worn in this day.

Alven was,like his father,an active worker in the Universalist church,singing in the choir (as did his sons Marcus and Dudley) acting as church maintenance committee on the building where his father wea one of the building committee;carrying on his father's work in the social librarywhich was for those days,large and well selected ,maintained privately by owning"shares" and bidding at auction every three months period for the right to read the books,no bid to be less than three cents,and if the book was injured or soiled even by marking,a fine was exacted and the place noted by a pencil or ink cross to cancel it!!

(The library was merged with the town public one about 1800)

He held the important town offices (as did his fatherand has his sonsand gr.son Neal on the old home place); for two terms was "Side" (assistant)judge of Orange Co.court,an elective office by the county; He was delegate to the Vermont Cconstitu-

tional Convention in 1870;always a staunch Democrat;never strong in health he led a conservative life until apoplexy after a few hours illness terminated what his fellow citizens esteemed a useful,respected life. (It is worthy of note that his three sons also died suddenly,Dudley and Marcus with no warning and David in forty-eight hours,of heart weakness or apoplexy.)

8-1001 ORREN SMITH,(Christopher,John,Silas,Samuel, John,Richard,John),b.July 27,1806,Lempster,N.H.; d.Aug.12,1867, Chicago.Ill. He was a physician,Republican,attended Congl.ch., and later the Episcopal.

In 1922 his dau.Ellen wrote the compiler data she had sent the Chicago Medical Society (she had sent them his picture also at their request) to which is here added other items of an authentic source as follows:

"Orren Smith studied medicine in Barre,Vt.,with Dr.Perkins Burnham; graduated at medical department of Univ.of Vermont in Burlington,Vt.,1830; was married the same year to Julia Knapp of Berlin,Vt.,where he began the practice of medicine that year; served Berlin,Vt.,three terms in state legislature,also as state and county superintendant of schools.

About 1847 he moved to Montpelier,Vt.,continuing his practice there and in the vacinity until forced by ill health to seek a warmer climate in Tennessee,one winter only.

In 1850 he was appointed a proffessor in the medical school,in Univ.of Vermont,at Burlington,Vt.,from where he had graduated, and resigned the position because of ill health in 1857 when he felt a change of climate was imperative.

Dec.4,1856,or near then,he and his wife and son Orren,went to Knoxville,Tenn.,for his health: when 14 yrs.of age he had his first attack of rheumatism and was never free from it; later it affected his heart so that for five winters before going to Knoxville,Tenn.,he was laid up with it three months each time but was free from it the winter in Tenn.,which caused him to say if he lived 100 yrs.he would never have it again for he had learned how to keep clear of it. And he didn't have it again.

Not wishing to make his home in the South he went to Chicago, Ill.,in the fall of 1857,responding to a call to take a chair in Rush Medical College; but upon investigation he felt his health would not permit him to assume the arduous duties demanded in the infancy of a medical school,added to a medical practice. At the urgent request of many of his old friends in Chicago he descided to stay and try the western climate which proved satisfactory. He sent for his family and was able to continue his medical practice until taken with his last illness lasting seven weeks; the autopsy showing it to be caused by inflammatory rheumatism,affecting the heart.

In form Dr.Orren had the family trait,being tall,very straight, rather spare of flesh,and of a genial,pleasant demeanor. His frequent letter-writing was excellent in penmanship and subject matter,ranging all the way from domestic details to local incidents, nature studies,dissertations on civiv conditions and national problems,as the letters his nephew,Dr.D.B.Smith gave to the compiler amply shows. His church affilliations when in Berlin and Montpelier,Vt.,were Congl.,and later Episcopal; in politics,Republican. This in church matters is not surprising since there was no Universalist church near them and his wife was a Congrgationalist; but in politics for his generation to leave the Democratic is unexplainable,-almost.

9-4000 Willard Graves Smith,b.May 8,1837; d.Sept.5,1907,Togus, Maine,in the National Soldier's Home. He was a machinist and m.Lucia M.Bentley. The following sketch of his life is from his sister Isabelle:

"Willard enlisted in the war of the Rebellion,Dec.29,1863, Co.C.8th Regt.Vt.Vols.,for three yrs. He was drafted previously tho in poor health from hemorrhage of the lungs. The examining board at Rutland,Vt.,hearing that his father was on the way to pay the $300 exemption if he was accepted,did so, and got the money. Afterwards when Williamstown had the war meeting in the old town hall he volunteered and directed the big chorus in singing war songs; at that time I was a little girlof ten but was the alto for the chorus and after singing the stirring song:

"We're coming,coming,coming,-
We hear them loudly call!"

I looked back after taking my seat below and Willard was still singing the call; I never will forget,-and can see him now,as he stood there 6 ft.,3inches,straight and slender,-and white as death,for we never thought he could survive the hardships; but they sent him first to New Orleans where he joined the 8th Vt.,Vt.Brigade band,one of the largest in the service,composed largely of Germans from the mother country and were great musicians. In time of battle he (and the band) were on duty caring for the wounded and assisting the surgeon by giving chloroform. The climate agreed with him and he was very well when discharged June 28,1865.

He married in the spring of 1867 Lucia M.Bentley of Deruyter, N.Y.,who died in Syracuse,N.Y.,1892. She was a beautiful woman from an old and honored family. Her father was a prominent judge and quite a noted writer. She was a very fine musician and for a long time while in Rome,N.Y.,he was chorister and she organist in one of their Congl. churches. He organized and led a band in several places where he resided,and used his wonderful musical ability for the public good from his youth.

After his wife died he was a broken-hearted man and came from his home in Syracuse,N.Y.,to our home in St.Albans,Vt., where he lived until two yrs.before his death; Burlington,Vt., hospital experiences,and gigantic will-power kept him living for months thru severe sicknesses.

In Nov.3,1906 he was admitted to the National Soldier's Home Togus,Maine,where he died Sept.5,1907,of tuberculosis of glands of the neck. His body was buried there. No children.

8-1101 MEHITABLE DODGE,(Anna,John,Silas,Samuel,John, Richard,John),b.Sept.17,1806,Walpole,N.H.: d.Aug.23,1897,Walpole;
The family of Anna was lost to the compiler,(Anna (Smith)Dodge) until Oct.1921,when in his pastorate in Alstead,N.H.,and reading casually the Drewsville (a small hamlet half-way to BellowsFalls Vt.) local items in the paper,the familiar name of Mehitable Dodge flashed before his eyes. The name was familiar because he had often read and wondered about a letter received among the many other old letters from his uncle,D.B.Smith,who treasured genealogical and historical matter. The letter was written by her,and her name this time occured in the obituary of her son Horace L.Quinton,who if the relationship had been known during the six months previous while the compiler lived so near him , much valuable data could have been learned. The letter to Mr. John Smith is plainly,nicely written; the quaint expressions of affection,and the historical setting it contains should be preserved and therefore are placed here as follows:

"Walpole May the 24 1830

Dear Grandpar It is with pleasure I improve this oportunity to acknowledge my neglect in not answering your request at an earlier date but trust your goodness will excuse me. I find your sudden and unexpected departure from this place is much regretted by thy friends generally and perhaps few have more sensibly felt the vacancy made in our little social circle than our family.

We still very fondly cherish the remembrance of your social visits and your name is often affectionately mentioned by our family I cinclude it will not be necessary to mention particularly respecting this place all things remain nearly as they were it is a general time of health in this vacinity I address you perhaps for the last time as I am about to Change my Situasion I suspect my Situasion will be 15 miles West of Rutland (Vt.)knowing your anxiety for my future welfare you will probably like to know his name he is Nephew of ColDrew His name is Quinton the prospects are favorable our family are well Uncles Nickols and Smith family are well also My time is short excuse all errors my writing will inevitably show it father and Mother Sends their respects to hoping they shall See you at Walpole Soon and Uncles family as Many as Can leave home Give my Compliments to Cousins

m.Summer of 1830, JOSHUA QUINTON,b.1790; d.Nov.4,1863,Walpole, N.H.,aged 73-5-27. He was a farmer and about 1855 they moved from Grafton,Vt.,to Walpole,N.H.,living there the rest of their lives on a farm. (The His.of Walpole ,N.H.,may have data"-GertrudePorter.

9-4552 Horace Laselle Quinton,b.May 26,1849,Walpole,N.H.; d.Oct. 27,1921,Rockingham hospital,Bellows Falls,Vt.; never married; was called "a woman hater". He was a farmer and carpenter in Walpole,N.H.;since six yrs.of age he lived on the home farm of his father in Walpole,N.H.,until the last seven yrs.when he bought a little red house east of the road on the hill from Alstead into Drewsville,in the village. Here he was strong and well until stricken with apoplexy and carried to the hospital.

He took great interest in making frequent journies on foot,-refusing rides,to Vermont cemeteries where his relatives were buried,sometimes 100 miles away. On the trips he would often sleep where night found him,in a barn,or secluded place,eating his frugal meal from the wares of some grocery store,-living "the simple life"in quiet and perfect rectitude.

Fred Marvin,who kept a general store in Alstead,N.H.,told the compiler that once Mr.Quinton purchased some groceries of him and finding he had forgotten to take some money to pay for them,insisted on leaving the groceries and going back afoot, as usual,some 3 miles after his money.

Horace left his money,about $15000. to the town of Walpole, N.H. The compiler attended the auction of his household goods and found a tidy home full of rare old furniture and heirlooms best of books of their day,and he deeply regretted that he had lived within three miles of the lost relative who could have told him so much of ancestral history. In religion Horace was a Unitarian,-"if anything".

8-1102 GARDNER DODGE,(Anna,John,Silas,Samuel,John, Richard,John),b.July 8,1811,Walpole,N.H.; d.Apr.20,1880,Walpole, N.H. Gardner Dodge was a well-to-do farmer and tavern-keeper in Walpole Valley,N.H. He bought the Griswold Tavern and changed the name to Dodge Tavern. His parents spent their days in the small house just above Dodge Tavern.

On a little higher road the compiler was shown another hotel where he understood Frank Anson Dodge,9-5507,onetime lived,the latter pointing to the big,old barn across the road a little lower down,said that in the early days smugglers from Canada would come at night,unload their goods into a deep cellar under the feed floor,strew chaff over the floor and the trap-door,then after resting up a day or two,reload and hurry to the next place. The cellar had long fallen in disuse and become nearly filled up.

9-5507 Frank Anson Dodge, b.Apr.28,1852,Walpole,N.H.; m.May Powers who had a son and daughter by a 1st marriage.

Frank was a farmer in Walpole Valley,N.H.,and on May 22, 1923 the compiler walked from his home in Alstead,N.H.to the Walpole Valley nearly two miles below Drewsville,and found Mr. Dodge in a field holding a plow for a Polish neighbor; They being strangers to him the compiler asked one: "Your name is Frank A.Dodge?" The answer was "Yes." "Your father's name was Gardner Dodge?" "Yes." "And his mother's name was Anna Smith?" With mild surprise Mr.Dodge again answered,Yes." "Well,what was her father's name?" To which Mr.Dodge replied with stress: "Ho,I don't know!" "Well",the compiler said. "I do. It was John Smith," Mr.Dodge looked at him in surprise as tho he didnot know what was coming next,and asked: "Well,who are YOU!" The compiler then explained that Mr. Dodge's grandmother and his gr.grandfather were brother and sister. Had time permitted another visit more information of this branch of the family could have been learned; but the families lost to each other for two generations,yet living not far apart,lost save for this momentary gleam of recognition,will again lapse into darkness as the compiler moved to So.Pasadena,Calif.,and time,stressful living,distance and new relationships crowd out the sentiment and heritages of the past. Yet these elements are a great part of life.

I am sure they both died in Hancock,Vt.,and they are both lying in the little cemetery about two miles above Hancock village on the road to Riptin. The first house up what is known as "Fassett Hill" is the farm where they once lived and where Zilpah died This house is in sight of the cemetery. The dates of the children are probably correct as they are the same in both Bibles. They had eleven children; perhaps more births, but no record."

The following letters give us an insight into the life,education and thoughts of those early times; It is too bad we cannot have the photographed copies. The writing is hurried,not easy to read,scarce a punctuation mark in this or any letters of that time. The letter was written to "Christopher Smith Esq" in a yellow envelope,and it is worthy of note that envelopes had not been used much before 1845 as the compiler observes, and lately it has become a fad among the "seekers after something new and strange"to again use the paper folded into an envelope; perhaps not a bad idea.

Ann (Ellis) Burnham-Gale,9-4100,states that Christopher, (father of Hosea) lived on his father's farm (John Smith,Jr. (7-305) so Ann would know about it) with his father until they all got driven off by a mortgage,and that Christopher died early in life.

He was educated at Concord,N.H.,high school; Wesleyan Univ., Middletown,Mass.; is a Mason, Eastern Star,and Republican; has been chairman of school-board in Plymouth,N.H.sec'y of New Hampshire M.E.church conferance; trustee of Wesleyan Univ.

The compiler often read the letter written by Rev.Eleazer Smith to Dr.D.B.Smith,see Historical Section) in which the Rev. Eleazer expresses the hope his younger son might study for the ministry. Taking this cue we hunted and questioned all sources in the Methodist church for the son without avail. After two or three years a clergyman of that church advised writing to a prominent official,an elderly man,"who knew all the Methodist ministers of N.H.for several yrs.past;" this had the desired effect for quickly came the statement of his name,his relationship to the Rev.Eleazer,and the surprising information that the one sought was "almost at your doorstep,in Claremont,N.H.",when the compiler was at his pastorate in Alstead,N.H. A visit was soon made and another surprise in "geny" searching passes into history,and like many others,fades in history.

Like his father,Rev.Albert L.Smith,is one of the helpful,substantial men in his church and extends his usefulness to civic life. His wife also bears an active part in an equally wide and useful life.

In the light of the sterling lives and activities of this father and son we pause to consider the significance of Dr.D.B. Smith's observation in the Historical Section that"Abner Smith was a Universalist and his family were Methodists which caused some differences between them." How little we know just what factors shapes the lives of people and nations; so perhaps it is unseemly to stress too heavily our idea of destiny.

9-3801 DAVID MARTYN SMITH,(Alven,Christopher,John, Silas,Samuel,John,Richard,John),b.May 8,1827,Williamstown,Vt.; d.Dec.16,1915,Williamstown,Vt.,in the farm home for 60 yrs.lacking 2 months.

Like many other older boys in a family who had to work summers David went to "deestrict) school winters a short time but made unusual progress in arithmetic,reading,spelling,writing,analysis, and even studied chemistryand natural philosophy (physics). The writer well remembers his father often telling him in like school age when arithmetic examples were taken home at night and father asked to help solve them: "What's your rule? Oh,go get Adamses old ârthmetic and see if you can understand that rule."(Greenleaf's Practical and other modern books were no good. So we of each generation decry the present. Oh well,--). And when the "draw-tub" in sap time afforded a grand chance to apply the arithmetic to see how many buckets it would hold father knew as well the son how to "figger"it. How many high school scholars to-day can do as well,for remember a draw-tub"is not square.

Upon becoming of age he went with some mates (Tom Works) to Hartford,Conn.,to work in Colt's Pistol Shop for about six months the only time he was out of Vermont. That experience and the little money it netted him influenced him to learn the blacksmith trade of Enoch Howe in Williamstown,Vt.; but at marriage he bought the Townsend farm in the north-east corner of the townon the Berlin road,bordering Berlin,where they lived 60 yrs.less 2 months and 12 days at time of his death. This farm by dint of hard work and great sacrifice they paid for and some besides.

He was for 10 or 15 yrs.or more selectman and auditor of the town; justice of the peace (tho he would never qualify to do business gladly done by others) and like his father and gr.father a strong supporter of the Social library and Universalist church; we may add also like them in politics a Democrat,tho in last yrs.of life refusing to vote for Bryan and those later as he felt they had the old time principles,

At one town election for representative to legislature,the Republicans not liking their candidate,Cyrus U.Lathrop,began voting for the Democratic candidate,this time David M.Smith (usually an empty honor as Republicans were 3 to 1); in those days the law permitted no adjournment before the final one,so as Tuesday wore away and his votes were increasing he began to get scared; He MIGHT be elected and that would never do! Albert R.Martin, (his school-boy and life long friend) began to receive one vote thus lessoning the possibility of his election,-and one balot he came within one vote of election; so thrythe long night ballot after ballot was taken,-all thru the next day,Wednesday it continued until "chore-time"at night came and the meeting adjourned with no one elected.

He served one winter as juryman in county court and that was a serious matter as it took him away from home and "chores" something after all very necessary to consider. He "settled"many estates,one the George Simons estate which involved long legal proscesses between the heirs and the Congl.church. He improved his farm and in the last years cared for his 100 hens,horse,cows etc.,still to the last even aiding his son (the compiler) and wife who had come home to care for his parents,by milking and feeding stock within the hour he ate his supper and fell from his rockingchair by the stove,stricken with apoplexy from which he died forty-eight hours later. (See his sketch in George Martin of Salisbury,Mass.,by Elliot B.Watson,M.D.,and A.M.S.8-896)

m.Feb.28,1856,Barre,Vt.,LOIS GOODALE THOMSON,b.Sept.20,1838, Barre,Vt.; d.Apr.30,1916,Williamstown,Vt.; dau.of John and Abigail (Abbott) Thomson. (See Descendants of George Abbott of Rowley,Mass.,by Maj.L.A.Abbott: also Thomson Genealogy in preparation by A.M.S.)

She survived her husband thru the winter,gave her concent to sell the farmand with her son and wife moved to the village; but the ravages of a disease whivh closed the ausophagus caused her death Apr.30,1916,by starvation(the dr.called it in those days paralysis) which occured in the Briggs tenement up stairs, opposite her aunt Polly (Abbott) Howehome recently then converted into a town library.

In her girlhood she attended Barre,Vt.,Avadeny which her father had helped build; taught school one term,and like her mates persuaded herself she could paint landscapes and animal and childlife (and did as well as others) tho like Artemus Ward's "Panorama" it needed a name to label it "so he knew it was a "panorama." But her home and Christian influence needed no label.

10-2000 John Thompson Smith,b.Feb.25,1858; d.Feb.18,1876,in his parent's home,Williamstown,Vt. He was a good scholar as many a "composition"school exercise and report card still testifies; was well liked by his mates. Like many of his generation while attending Goddard Seminary,Barre,Vt.,he had a room "downtown"in Mrs.White's home at corner of Main and Seminary

Streets(just in front of the Seminary) where his father brought his food from the home five miles away once a week; Think what it meant for the mother to cook the box-full for the children away at school,-and for the children to eat it after a week's time in hot weather with no ice in those heroic days. Of course the boy learned to do simple cooking,that was a part of his education. John was to have graduated in the english course the June following February when he had scarlet fever and was carried home where typhoid pneumonia developed,and the end came.

His last words to his younger brother (the writer) uttered shortly shortly before his death as the small lad was admitted to the sick-room (this was before contagion and infection had gripped the public) were: "Be a good boy and go to school". To his father who was trying to take his attention by telling of "breaking the colt in the spring",John replied: "I shall not be here then."

10-2001 Clement Edwin Smith,b.May 4,1862; d.Oct.23,1870,in his parent's home,Williamstown,Vt.; Death was caused by typhoid fever. A "Reward of Merit" from his teacher testifies to his disposition,scholarship and character. This death (and the writer nearly followed) is but one of the many which a genealogist sorrowfully observes as he sees the record of two, three or four in a family in those days all swept away about the same time,and then shudders at the thought of a boy being admitted to the sick room where his brother lay dying of scarlet fever,precious as that visit was. But the family burial ground in Williamstown village which gr.grandfather Christopher picked out,where gr.gr.grandfather John is lying,and the grandfather,the father,sons and cousin,5 generations,-is a company which awaits others yet to come.

9-3802 LYDIA LUCRETIA SMITH,(Alven,Christopher,John, Silas,Samuel,John,Richard,John),b.Mar.10,1830,Williamstown,Vt.; d.July 13,1864,in her parent's home,Williamstown,Vt.; (See Geo. Martin of Salisbury,Mass.,Genealogy,by E.B.Watsom,M.D.,and AMS)

Betsey (Martin)Dickerman-Perkins,8-997 in Martin Genealgy,said of Lucretia: "She was a dear,good woman. I lived with her."

From her school-day compositions (essays) and early letters, all so nicely written in a very fine hand and pleasing way,it is evident she had an able,versatile mind. It is a pity that because of her husband's surley temper she led such an unhappy,broken life which at last caused her parents to take her home to die. It is sad to see such a decline as her letters show,but always sweet and appreciative,and the writer regrets his father's sentiments were such that he rarely mentioned one who was dead,so great was his emotion,that we seldom questioned him; but he had the greatest respect and affection for his unfortunate sister whose ability the writer never suspected until her writings fell into his hands,and he learned from her cousin Ann (Ellis) Gale the few facts here narrated.

9-3803 Dr.DUDLEY BECKWITH SMITH,(Alven,Christopher, John,Silas,Sergt.Samuel,-John,Richard,John),b.Dec.15,1832,William stown,Vt.; d.Apr.19,1910,instantly in his home,Plainfield,Vt.; (See George Martin of Salisbury,Mass.,Genealogy by E.B.Watson,M.D. and A.M.S.,8-898; also his picture and sketch in Genealogical History of State of Vermont by Hon.Hyram Carleton,1903)

To this man,Dr.Smith,we owe the preservation of much of the older historic matter since the time of of the Sergt.Samuel,found in this Genealogy and preserved by him in old letters,records and inspiration to formulate and carry it on to present time.

He was a good scholar,forever reading history,analyzing(medical civic,financial and religious subjects. He attended Orange Co., Grammar school at Randolph,Vt.,Kimball Union Academy at Meridan, N.H.,and Northfield,Vt.,Asademy.

Because he was not large and strong to bear the burdon of manual labor,he said he knew he must choose something else and he thought he should like medicine. In this decision we may presume his uncle,Dr.Orren Smith,a physician of repute,had an influence. He studied at the Medical School at Vt.University ,Burlingtom,Vt., graduating 1856,becoming in late life the only surviving alumnus of his time.

He spent his qhole life as a physician in Plainfield,Vt.,(save five months in the winter of 1861-2 in Lancaster,N.H.) where from his intelligent,conscientious application to the work he became a valuable doctor and citizen of the town.

He wrote the history of the town for Hemenway's Gazetteer of Vermont; was an ardent Republican and represented the town in the legislature of 1880; Altho an active worker and singer in the Universalist church,so broad were his sympathies and excellent his abilities as an historian that he was asked to prepare and deliver the historical address at the centennial anniversary of the Plainfield Congregationalist church,which he did.

He was a keen humorist,had an intense interest in history and the lessons it teaches; a love for the home and community; for its library and all which served to apply his ripened thought to the problems of social and civic life. The builfing of the Montpelier and Wells River R.R.found in him an earnest advocate;also the the organizing and maintaining of the Co-operative Creamery, he owning a farm,and renting it to a family.

The long years of amicable cooperstion between him and Dr.Lasell of the same town,calling each other in cases of sickness in in their respective families,-speak volumes of worth for each of them; and we nephews liked to see Uncle Dudley coming to our homes.

After the death of his wife he had a stroke of apoplexy which but fot his indomitable energy,would have kept him in the house; but he continued to practice as people would come to his house or carry him to his patient. But it could not last many years.Death came one night as he was preparing for bed,unlike the respite of 48 hours to his older brother,it came instantly as in the case of his younger brother who was found dead in bed,-the Dr.was found the next morning on the floor by his bed,a big-lamp burning within 18 inches of his head. The housekeeper,Mrs.Laura Golden,heard a muffled jar but thought from the barn near by,until she found him the next morning,apoplexy or heart failure having done its work.

Marcus A. Smith was educated in the home village district school as was his older bro. David; being the youngest of the family he took the farm and the parents to maintain. Here he spent his life the early part as a leader in the best of the social activities of the day, and always a hard working man.

He served many yrs. as 1st selectman and held various other town offices. He was one of the town R.R. commissioners when the R.R. was built into town; was active supporter and trustee of the Social library, and of the village cemetery; a singer in the Universalist church and at many funerals and public functions; was a prime actor in many a dramatic entertainment, few equaling him. He was a staunch Democrat, tho like his older brother, displeased with the party actions in later life and so largely refrained from voting. These two brothers resembled the Smiths while the other brother, Dudley, did the Martyns, being less conservative and more given to travel.

From duties at home perhaps more than from inclination, Marcus left the state but twice: once to visit the Centennial at Philadelphia, Penn., 1776, and again his son Orren in Melrose, Mass. He was a fluent conversationalist and interested only in worthwhile subjects of welfare or reminiscences.

Because of his wife's dying in 1879 his mother again became responsible for home cares and the rearing of the two boys (until a house-keeper was necessary) tho her unhappy disposition made a hardship as it had done earlier for all.

Like his brothers and sister, tho with greater strength and younger yrs. he kept resolutely at work until the last; on Apr. 29, 1913 he was sowing grain on the hillside farm; at night laying the fire in the stove for morning, singing southern melodies as he did it, and the next morning not rising so early as usual (he was always an early riser) his son Neal looked into the room and found him dead in the bed which had been but little disturbed. The still warm body showed that his heart, known to be weak, had but recently stopped. Now his body and that of his wife's add to those of the five generations lying in Williamstown, Vt., cemetery all within 70 ft. of each other.

Before Neal was 16 yrs.of age he was a salesman in J.K.Lymde's general store in the village; later he went to Eastman's Business College,Poughkeepsie,N.Y.,and graduated Nov. 1897; He went to work at once for the Trinidad Ashfelt Co.,in N.Y.city and in June was sent to Trinidad,British West Indies where he was manager of the laborers until his return to Williamstown,Vt.,in May,1910,when he began helping his father on the farm. After his father's death he continued farming,improving the farm and stock until he had an "accredited herd" of Holstein cattle and a remodeled barn. He was a promotor and director of Barre Creamery Associationwhich did a large business for years; pres.of GraniteHeights Cow Testing Association; chairman of Williamstown School Directors,and also of the board of selectmen several years; justice of the peace; trustee,and clerk of the cemetery association many yrs.; trustee and treas. of the public library many yrs.;joined the Grange (to save it) and was very helpful in refinanving their large hall and stableising the organization; was elected town representative to the legislature 1922-4 and again in 1928-30,and that without asking or working for it,-besides being a Democrat in a strong Republican town.

We sometimes wonder how the old town would get along without Neal as a hard working,intelligent,conscientious citizen.

9-3904 ELLEN MARIA SMITH,(Orren,Christopher,John, Silas,Samuel,John,Richard,John),b.July 15,1840,Berlin,Vt.; d.Dec. 10,1923,St.Paul,Minn.,at the home of her son George with whom she had lived some years.

At Ellen's birth her parents had in mind to name her Helen Maria,but gr.father John Smith objected saying: "We have had enough Helen Marias" (three of them and they all died) so the name Ellen was substituted.

When Ellen's parents and her bro.Orren left Montpelier,Vt.,for the winter in Knoxville,Tenn.,that fall Ellen went to school in Burlington,Vt.,and remained only until the family settled in Chicago,Ill.,so didnot graduate as she went to Chicago.Ill.

Ellen kept in touch with her Smith relatives thru her cousin Dr.D.B.Smith ,Plainfield,Vt.,9-3803,visiting Vt.with Judge Upton her 3d husband who was very sick one time in Montpelier,Vt.,and Dr.D.B.Smith was his physician.

When the compiler was collecting data for this Genealogy from Feb.14,1922 to July 17,1923,Ellen wrote as strength and sight permitted at different times a long letter,nicely worded,in large, plain,heavy writing without a tremble,all the data she was able. At this time she was not able to hear common conversation,had to use a four inch reading glass,and had fallen down stairs,severely spraining her ankle. She was a superior woman as her father was a man.

Bell has led a busy,useful life in her home and community,intelligently administering all its many details as children and co-workers will testify. The following letter is so characteristic and filled with interesting reminiscences that it is no wrong to insert in part in this sketch:

"Swanton,Vt.,Sun.eve.,Oct.23,1921.

Dear Cousin Alven;-

I was happily surprised this evening when my son Robert who lives in St.Albans,Vt.,brought me your letter. There are so few of us left that your letter seemed like a link in the chain of memory connecting me with the dear ones on the other side.

I am glad,too,that you are trying to get data that shall help to establish the correct genealogy of the Smith family. Several years ago I called at cousin Marcus home to see you (my father was David,-A.M.S.)about this same matter as I understood cousin Dudley(9-3803)had secured a good deal of of information in regard to it which you had,but at that time you was in the state of Washington.

 Two years ago I was in Williamstown one day of "Old Home Week"; found a few acquaintances of the old days,but none of the family. At that time I visited the cemetery,and also the old church (Universalist) where my father was leader of the choir. I went there all alone went up the little stairway to the old gallery where I found the name of Rosa Seaver carved on the counter in front of where I stood to sing when only a little girlof 8 yrs.of age  the name was there then. I was the only alto singer in the choir all the years until I was married at the age of 19; I sang once more there that day,two years ago just the doxology,but with tears streaming down my face and so faintly that only the spirits of the "dead,gone days" could hear and understand.

I still have the cello that my father and Cady Earle(see 9-4801 Thomas Flint Genealogy by A.M.S.) used to play there and sometimes I play now in S.S.concerts for the children. I am superintendant of a large S.S.in in the first Congregational church here so you see that tho I am 71 yrs.of age I am still in the work.

I have a family record,yellow with age,in my father's hand writing with records of births,marriages and deaths  I am the only one left of my family and would be glad to learn if there are any relatives living of Uncle Orren's family or Ann Ellis.

I have been looking up data to establish my right to become a D.A.R.and find many interesting things on my mother's side. Her gr.father was a pioneer and was killed by Indians while going 25 miles to mill; one ancestor fought at Bunker Hill,Tarrytown,etc. My mother's name was Sarah Coolidge Graves,her grandmother's name was Sarah (Coolidge) Kibling,and I find I am several times removed a cousin of our vice-president Calvin Coolidge.

 The Revolutionary records are found in Strafford,Vt.

I am with kind regards to yourself and family,your cousin,

Sarah Isabelle Smith Fleury."

At the age of sixteen,Allen's heritage of fighting blood got hot in his veins and he ran away from home in Isle LaMott,Vt., (Fort Ann,first fort on the frontier and Jesuite shrine) to Alburgh,Vt.,and enlisted in the Civil war for three years,July 28, 1862,in Co.K.1st Regt.,Vt.Heavy Artillery,11th Vt.Vols. He was in defence of Washington,was in five engagements,was taken prisoner at battle of Richmondand Weldon R.R.,sometime in June 1864.

He was in Libby prison at first,but most of the time until Apr. 29,1865 in Andersonville prison. Eleven days after Lee's surrender he came into our lines at Jacksonville,Fla.; for many months after his discharge June 25,1865,he was so weak in body and mind, and only 19 yrs.and 5 mo.old,his recovery was not expected.

When 21 yrs.old he attended Barre (Vt.) Academy one term where he met the girl who later became his wife.

Mr.Fleury was deputy collector of U.S.customstwenty-two yrs.at St.Albans,Vt.,and Swanton,Vt. In Jan.1811 he was appointed Vt. inspector of weights and measures. He has often given as a lecture his dreadful experiences in Andersonville prison.

That Robert is loath to put away "childish things" (if it is childish,which isn't proved) his mother writes; "In the midst of a cold winter of 1925,tho 45 degrees below zero one morning,the winter sports have been in full vogue and in the old fashioned way. Robert piloted a big traverse down one of the principal streets in St.Albans which was roped off so no one could in or out of their own yard at certain hours with a car; The elite of the city were participants as well as those that 'can't ride in chaises'".

Child's Orange Co.,Vt.,Gazetteer,p.83 in "Bench and Bar,Brookfield,Vt.,has this: "Martin Paine Burnham was b.in Brookfield,Vt., about 1835 and was the son of Ariel Burnham who was one of the assistant judges of Orange county court 1847-8. His mother was a Paine and her father was one of the first settlers of the east part of Brookfield. He married his wife in Barre,Vt.,and died in Texas several yrs.ago."

The compiler has a memory of hearing his parents say Burnham's unsubstantial character caused him and his wife an unhappy life and she went to her mother's home to live; that he was wild and died died in some bambling-den scrape in Texas. A Burnham Genealogy would probably give his ancestry,and the George Martin of Salisbury,Mass.Genealogy by E.B.Watson,M.D.and A.M.S.,tells of the Burnhams in Brookfield,Vt.,under Aaron Martin,5-1045.

Dear Mr.Smith; You must think that we New Englanders are slow. At any rate I am with this note sending you the data you were asking for. I hope I have what you want and if not I can try again.

We have a real old time winter with lots of snow and all the fun that goes with it. Spring is not in sight and paths had to be made this morning.

My grandmother is not quite as well as usual this winter. She is pretty lame and doesn't go out any,but gets down stairs almost every day and mentally keeps young. She is very fond of young people and naturally is overjoyed with her great grand-daughter, Ralph's baby.

I don't envy you your work on the family records. It must be slow but you evidently enjoy it and the rest of us will profit by it later. Perhaps the Smith family is rather large; my husband claims some Smith ancestors too.

We will be delighted to see you in our Vermont home if you are east next summer. Good luck to you! Yours sincerely,

(Mrs.A.B.) Maud B.Edgerton."

10-2002 ALVEN MARTYN SMITH,(David M.-Alven,Christopher,John,Silas,Samuel,John,Richard,John),b.Nov.5,1865,Williamstown,Vt.; living 1931,at 1118 Glendon Way,So.Pasadena,Calif.,and writing several family genealogies,as: completing the George Martin of Salisbury,Mass.,(begun by E.B.Watson,M.D.); Three Blackmore Genealogies (three families in one book); Thomas Flint of Salem,Mass.; this one of John Smith of Lancaster,Mass.; and hopes to write up his Thompsons, and Martyns,and Benedicts,perhaps more.

He followed his older brother from district school to Goddard Seminary,Barre,Vt.,occupying the same room in Mrs.White's home and being also carried home sick with scarlet vever,-but he didn't die; graduated 1886,worked on the farm at home summers and taught school in ungraded districts winters; 1885-6 in Marshfield,Vt., four weeks and then was sick in his home with measles 104,1-2 degrees(or was it 105,1-2) fever which made him crazier than usual for a week and took his nails off and most of his hair; winter of 1886-7 taught the same school; 1887-8 in his own village,Williamstown,Vt.,when the school reached low point,26 scholars,before the town system period; in 1888-9at "The Head of the Pond" in Berlin,Vt.,from where in Feb.22,he reached Taunton,Mass.,Lunatic Hospital where he remained one year to a day (as "attendant"they were then called,nurse later) then thinking himself well fitted, entered Canton,N.Y.Theological School(Feb.1890) from where he graduated June 1892.

He married the next Sunday and began a 7,1-2 years pastorate in his home town and Washington,Universalist churches,living in his parent's home,marrying his old playmates,burying his old (and young) friends,watching by the sick-beds of parishioners,until nine years in Washington were completed and the old church building made new. Then came pastorates in Concord,Vt.,in No.and East-Montpelier one Sunday and Calais and East Calais the nekt,for those were the days when heroic efforts were put forth to "revive the rural church; it succeeded for after one year a pastor was in each of the two circuits. Then came Brownfield,Hiram and No. Fryeburg circuit in Maine from where in March 1911 with his wife and son Percy he went to Aberdeen,Washington,13 months to administer the estate of his mother's cousin,Maj.L.A.Abbott,preaching two months while the Congl.pastor took a vacation.

By this time,Apr.1912,his parents required his help on the farm, (they could not be happy away from home) so he went with his wife to them on the farm,doing farmwork and carrying a second pastorate in Concord,Vt.,50 miles away until in 1914 the parents were too feeble to leave when a second pastorate in his home church was held until after they passed away when he and wife spent the winter of 1916-17 in Long Beach,Calif. The summer of 1917 was in Stowe,Vt.,and in the fall began the pastorate in Ludlow,Vt.,and in the spring of 1920 in Alstead,N.H.,from where he and his wife retired to So.Pasadena,Calif.,reaching there Sept.10,1923.

(His first sermon was read in his home church while a student, and his first entire service the next winter vacation in Maple Corner,No.Calais,Vt.,and the following summer vacation in the hard parish of West Burke,Vt.,where little pay and less encouragement was found but a great oportunity to prove good.)

In the Vt.and Province Quebec,Universalist Convention he was for many yearschairman of the fellowship committee,also secy.and supt.of the convention in the hard,formative period of the policy and before that did much missionary work in needy parishes; was public school superintendant in Brownfield,Maine (with his pastorate) three years and graded the schools from the old time perfect chaos,into the system now in vogue and taught in the high school to aid in its efficiency; was a juror in criminal division superior court,Los Angeles County,Los Angeles,Calif.

He had hobbies like prohibition of intoxicating drink,woman suffrage (being pres.of Vt.Association 1903-4 and auditor one year), simplified spelling,metric system of weights and measures,anti-tobacco, a world language,and later in life could see no good reason for secret societies,tho earlier he was a Good Templar (anti-intoxication drinks) and for the insurance a Modern Woodman of America which he later dropped.

m.June 19,1892,in church,regular service Sunday by the pastor Rev.J.P.Marvin,in Stockbridge (Common),Vt.,ALICE K.BLACKMER,(see "Three Blackmore Genealogies by A.M.S.),b.Jan.5,1867,Stockbridge, Vt.;living 1931; dau.of Joel and Sarah (Barnes) Blackmer.

The alert,progressive principles she inherited found further action her school life in the home district,in Goddard Seminary, Barre,Vt.,where she graduated in 1886(in the same class as her husband,whom she met there),in teaching school in her own district in surrounding ones and in Rutland,Vt.,in needle work,music,landscape,animal and foliage painting,as a practical force in domestic,social and church life,besides taking into her home not only her brother Julius'children,but 13 yr.old Ellen Smith,dau.of Edward Smith when his wife died (no known relative of A.M.S.),Washington,Vt.,when their house burned in late fall of 1899. Ellen was sent to school,then to Goddard Seminary where she grad.in commercial course,worked in offices in St.Johnsbury,Vt.,Barre,Vt., m.(by A.M.S.)fall of 1907,William Mercer,assistant post-master, Barre,Vt. where they remain to date,1931.

The niece,Alice Blackmer,came into the family the fall after her mother died in the spring of 1919 and knew no other home until her marriage 1929,she and her father taking the month previous to arrange the new home. The brothers Mendell and John also lived in the family during school at Black River Academy,Ludlow,Vt.,three years.

Further data of the family may be found in the genealogies named above and in "Successful Vermonters" a gazetteer of Caladonia, Essex and Orleans Counties,Vt,,Essex section,p.127.

11-2501 Percy Thompson Smith,b.Sept.29,1898;living 1931,So.Pasadena.Calif. Percy went with his parents in March 1911 to April 1912 to Aberdeen,Washington,where his father administered the Maj.L.A.Abbott estate (he had to administer it later in Vt. where he had already administered the estates of his uncle D.B. Smith and his parents); while here tho young in years,Percy was very useful about the home out of school hours,as his father was at work and his mother sick in bed part of the time,-in a hospital Thanksgiving day,especially hard on a New England lad.

He graduated at Goddard Seminary,Barre,Vt.,1917; entered while in Tufts College,Medford,Mass.,the U.S.Army in the Student's Army Training Course,Oct.14,1918,to Dec.16,1918,and graduated from the college in the scientific course,B.S.degree,combining theological studies,June 1921. (He had begun the chemical course knowing theological studies would exempt him from war and he did not wish to be freed from that duty). Thet summer (1921) he preached thru the vacation in Barnard,Vt.,Universalist church, in the historic Hosea Ballou parish. The coming year 1921-2 he took advanced work in theology in Tufts College and with it became acting pastor in New Bedford,Mass.,Dec.15,1921 to June 1922,becoming then pastor which continued until June 1928.

He was ordained in his church Sunday Sept.24,1922,his father offering the ordination prayer. Since then he has been called to the Columbus,Ohio,church but thought best not to go. In 1923 Tufts College gave him a B.D.degree.

The vacation of 1926 was spent with his parents,all visiting on the old Blackmer homestead in Stockbridge,Vt.,perhaps too strenuously helping his cousin Mendell in the hay field; shortly after diabetes developed and in June 1928 he gave up the ministry and went with his wife to his parents home in So.Pasadena, Calif.,where thru her devotion to his diet and his constant care he seldom looses an hour from a finance office in Los Angeles or from his S.S.class of young men and duties there,in which work his wife joins him. Joined the Masons.

After elementary school in four towns and two states,Vt.,and Maine,John grad.at Goddard Seminary,Barre,Vt.,1912,and from Tufts College,Medford,Mass.,1916,scientific course,B.S.degree,and Rhode Island State College,Kingston,R.I.,M.S.degree,1927. He began work as a chemist in Amherst,Mass.,State Experiment station,Sept.1, 1916,following his graduation; entered service in U.S.Army,Oct.17 1917,as sergt.in Sanitary Corps,was promoted to 2nd lieut.and kept in D.C.,No.Carolina,So.Carolina,Ga.,Florida,Louisiana and Texas as duty demanded; was honorably discharged Jan.11,1919 and resumed his old place in Amherst,Mass. At marriage they went to Bryan,Texas,in the State Experiment Station,and Jan.1,1923 began at a larger salary in Kingston,R.I.,State Experiment station , (state College)where he is state chemist,head of that department.

Hiram Drury at Williamstown,Vt.,likes to tell the story of seeing John,a boy of 7 or 8 yrs.of age at the Rural Delivery Mail box as Hiram was making his rounds and saying,"Well,Jogn,you intend to be a pretty good boy don't you?" to which John replied: "I don't intend to hurt myself doing it." Later his teacher at Plainfield,Vt.Orlando L.Martin,when John was in the 8th and 9th grades,remarked to John's father: "John never sat squarely down in his seat,-always ready to see what was going on; but he had his lessons and I gave him novels to read in schooltime". To this it is a relief to add that in later life he did active busy work as treas.of Kingston,R.I.,Dramatic Players, was one of three conducting the Book Club, was pres.of the Tavern Hall Club,singing each Sunday in the choir of the community church,active in the Grange,driving the fire engine and doing anything to advance the interests of college,social welfare and church life.

In one way perhaps he has not fulfilled the entire promise of youth when at the age of 5 yrs.he went to the Newton Martin auction and bid off a two-wick oil stove for four cents because he had heard his mother say she would buy one if cheap enough and he thought that was cheap enough; not having the money,two men gave him a penny apiece and he hunted up his grandpa and got the rest. The stove gave the family good service for years.

Connecting Deborah Gee,2-16 which follows,with Silas Smith,5-205, in foregoing Smithsection.

Extracts from two letters from Miss Eliza E.Gee,5-1206,to the compiler explaining supposed Gee ancestry:

1 Waban St.,Wellesley,Mass.,
Mr.Alven M.Smith; Oct.2,1926.

 I am sorry I cannot furnish you the "missing link"to connect the Lyme,Conn.,Gees with those of Yorkshire,England. Without doubt they came from the same stock and I have thought it might easily be French,perhaps of the time of William the Conqueror,and spelled either Guise or Guye. There is a French family in my acquaintance now who spell the name in the latter way and pronounce it as we do ours. I have a copy of the Gee tomb inscription in York Cathedral and a picture of it; also a genealogical chart of that family and a copy of the will,1600,of the father of that Sir William Gee. But nowhere can I see any hope of our connection.

Some years ago a genealogist sent me a copy of Solomon Gee's records in the Patterson collection of manuscript genealogies in the Hartford,Conn.,Historical Society that says Solomon Gee was born 1698 in Debonshire County; That you jnow is some distance from Yorkshire.

A direct descedant of William Gee,(2-18,-AMS.) son of the original Solomon,is now living on the old farm in Lyme,Conn.; in fact there are three generations there,Mrs.Way,Mrs.Eunice Burch Hathaway and her son Stephen Gee Hathaway. I visited them last year. I also saw the grave of Solomon with its Louisburg cross.

This year I have worked on the Boston Gees but there is no connection evident there. There was an early Joshua,a shipbuilder, with a "mansion" at the corner of Prince and Salem streets,and his son who was with Cotton Mather in the Second Church; a family tomb is in Copps Hill Cemetery.

If you are ever here I should be glad to meet you and show you the pictures and papers I have.

Very truly yours, Eliza E.Gee.

A second letter was dated Nov.3,1926:

* "Emily Huntley and I were in Europe this summer but she did not go to York. We have seen the tomb of William Gee of York and hoped we could find connection with the family. I had a copy of the family tree made by a vicar of the church in Bishop Burton, a town in Yorkshire where the Gees came from. I made the copy of the inscription myself. The Beckwiths also came from that region and there is a fine tomb in the Misster but a modern one.

I have a copy of the picture of the grave of Solomon Gee (see Cemetery Records,"Old Stone Church Burial ground",-AMS) but I enclose the film which you may have. You can easily see the cross and the emblems at each point mark it distinctly French. We too, noted the broken stone beside Solomon's and thought it Deborah's.

My Beckwith book says my great,great,grandfather,Daniel Beckwith married Miriam Smith,who after his death came to Marlow,N.H. with her sons. Is she in your line of Smiths? If so I'd be glad of the line back of her.

Very truly yours, Eliza E.Gee.

WILLIAM GEE of BISHOP BURTON, in the County of York, England.

"All this and more on the monument in the Choir Aisle in York, Minster, England, copied by me in Aug. 1905, -Eliza E. Gee."

"Stay Gentle Passenger & Reade
A Sentence Sent Thee From Ye Dead"

"If Wisdom, wealth, honor or honesty
Chastity, Zeal, faith, hope or charity
If universal learning, language, law
Pure piety, Religion's reverend awe
Firm friends, fair issue, a contented Life
The clergy's prayers, or the Poor man's Tears
Could have length to man's determined Years
Sure as the Fate which for a fault we fear
Proud had ne'er advanced his Trophy here:
In it behold thy Doom, thy Tomd provide
Sir William Gee had all these Pleas, yet died

William Gee of Bishop Burton in the County of York, Knight; One of the Privy Council, and Secretary to James I. King of Great Britain, a man illustrious for piety, integrity, and beneficence, especially to the ministers of God's word. He was eminent for his skill in the Latin, Greek and Hebrew language for his knowledge both of eccleiastical and civil law and especially for his acquaintance with theology both theoretical and practical. After he had married first Thomasine, daughter of the most reverend father in Christ, Dr. Hutton, archbishop of York, and afterwards Mary, sprung from the illustrious family of Cromptons, by each of which he had a fair and hopeful progeny, over whom he exercised the tenderest care to form them to every excellence. He patiently continued in this Vale of Tears for nearly fifty years in the exercise of an unshaken faith in Christ and an unviolated charity toward man. At length he fell asleep in Jesus, placidly resigning his soul to God his Father and his body to its Mother Earth in the expectation that one day he shall receive it back from thence gloriously improved and beautified.

May Gee who while they lived together was the companion of his enjoyments and beyond the ordinary measure of her sex of his virtues too, and after some years of widowhood expecting when the will of God is such to take part also of his Grave, has erected this ineffectual monument of her tender affection and Conjugal fidelity desirous to perpetuate as log as possible what she wishes might endure forever.

O Death, His love still lives within my heart
And mocks the efforts of thy feeble darts."

1-1 SOLOMON GEE,Sr.,(b._1698,Debonshire County,England,-see Eliza E.Gee's letter,p.76); d.Apr.13,1769,Lyme,Conn., in the 71st year of his age.

He lived in Lyme,Conn.,and is buried in the "Old Stone church Burial Ground," East Lyme,Conn.,near the corner nearest the site of the "Old Stone Church." At its immediate left is the broken part of a grave-stone protruding four inches above the ground, probably that of his wife Deborah. The grave is among many of the Gee,Beckwith and Smith families which are closely related, and not far from the graves of Sergt.Samuel Smith and Silas Smith.

For a further account see Cemetery Records, and his will following these pages,and on p.76 and 77 his supposed ancestry.

 Some GEE HISTORY in the form of a letter by S.W.HUNTLEY,5-900 to Iva T.Gee,6-801,and copied by Alven M.Smith Aug.18, 1926,from copt held by George F.Gee,Marlow,N.H.

(It is fitting for me to comment that probably Mr.S.W.Huntley, were he living at this time would think it strange that I,who never knew him,and is so distantly related to him,wished to copy this letter. I preserve it gladly because of its mass of data relating to his branch of the family,the interesting details concerning many of them,and especially because I enjoy the excellent phrasiology with which he has related it. In places I am sure I have not done him justice and perhaps the copy I have followed also erred; but it shows he had a grasp of ideas,knew how to fittingly express them,and appreciated the value of preserving family history.-Alven M.Smith.)

"Fitchburg,Mass.,Nov.27,1901.

Iva T.Gee,Marlow,N.H.;
My dear Cousin:-

The last time I was in Marlow -a few weeks ago -your Grandfather Gee and your father joined me in a search for records among the headstones in the "Old Grave Yard" in the west end of the town. Among the first stones we found was one nearly covered by the accumulations of over a century. The stone antedated the use of slate and was roughly fashioned from an ordinary piece of stone taken from the heighborhood. Across the top of this small headstone was 1777,-in the right hand corner below the year was "Gee". Curiosity led your father to lift the stone out of its socket of earth and after scraping the moss from the rude inscription we found the following: (See 3-102,-A.M.S.)

" Abner Gee died September 12th,1777,age 12yrs.2 mos."

This was the earliest record we found,and marked the grave of the child born in Lyme,Conn.,to Solomon Gee and wife Martha. Ten years before this child spent his first night in Marlow,-a child of two years,cuddled up to his mother,under an overturned cart.

Solomon Gee came to Marlow in 1767 with his family consisting of Martha,his wife,and their children,Freeman,Molly and Abner. They settled on what has since become known as the "Dr.Baker Farm",who was considered the richest man in Marlow,having at death $6000. In Mr.Elgin Jones history of Marlow we find that the spot where Solomon Gee built his log house was selected by Mrs.Gee because it marked the place where she first beheld sinlight in Marlow,-they having reached the town the previous day after nightfall,their shelter this night being the overturned cart; an old cellar hole still markes the location of this cabin.

A few years ago I visited this "cellar-hole"and wrote an article to our local paper in Fitchburg; a portion of that letter may be of interest to you in this connection: "A small party,two of whom were lineal descendants of Solomon Gee,left this city last Saturday,the objective point of their journey being the "Cellar-hole" marking the location of Solomon Gee's cabin. Leaving the "Wagner" at Keen,N.H.,a three hours ride over the mountain and through the town of Gilsum brought the party tired and hungry to the hospitable table of a former resident of this city,Elbridge B.Gee.(4-804) After a night's rest the party availed themselves of the kind offices of their host and started for the "Dr.Baker Farm." The ride was delightful,passing in our journey "Edgewood",a beautiful spot which the public spirit of Mr.Jones has turned into a picnic ground and added much to beautify and make it pleasant to the many visitors

We reached "Bakers Corner"without trouble and then commenced the search for the spot from which Mrs.Gee "first beheld the sunlight in Marlow;" as it fell to the lot of a woman to locate the cabin,so on this occasion the pleasure of finding the site of this old cabin rightfully belonged to one of the same sex,for had it not been for the sharp eyes of the woman in the party we should have come away sadly disappointed. As it was our search was rewarded and the gentleman andlady,descendants of this old New Hampshire family stood in the cellar-hole that marks the spot where the family of Mr.Gee was raised.

The cellar-hole commands one of those beautiful landscapes that have made New Hampshire famous. Lempster mountain on our left towers above the intervening highlands of Marlow Hill; a little to the right across a beautiful lake,-Sand Pond,that forms the source of Ashuelot,Huntley Mountain rears its wooded height; further to the right are the hills of Stoddard and the valley through which the Ashuelot winds its way to connect with the waters of the Connecticut. We were strongly impressed with the thought that "Grandmother" Gee was a woman of good taste as well as character and evinced that taste in the selection of her new home.

Solomon Gee's family consisted of his wife,Martha,and the following children;Freeman,Molly,Abner,Solomon,Jr.,Abisha,and Edward; the last three being born in Marlow. Solomon,Jr.,settled in Lunenburg,Vt.,soon after attaining his majority,and to this branch of the family our visitors belonged. (See 3-103)

On our way to Marlow Hill we found the West End burying-ground where we found the graves of the heads of this family. Loving hands had marked well their resting places;on handsome slabe we read these inscriptions:

"Solomon Gee died Aug.13,1804,aged 68 years."

"Martha,wife of Solomon Gee,died Nov.15,1828,aged 89 years."

This Solomon,son of Solomon and Deborah Gee,of Lyme,Conn.,was the first of the family of Gee to settle in Marlow.

STEPHEN GEE AND THE"OLD HOMESTEAD."

In my parlor hangs a beautiful picture in oil of the "Old Homestead." It was sketched and painted some years ago by one one of the finest landscape painters of his time. The artist was A.R. Bellows,of the National Academy. The picture was sketched from a spot just above the site of the new barn,on the right of the road leading to the "John Stone farm." On the left of the picture is the sugar-house; just beyond we get a trace of the old bridal-path up the hill; a little to the right are ledges and undergrowth, and over the tall pines is the slope leading up to Marlow Hill. In the center of the picture is the one story, red farmhouse so common in New England, with the ell and carriage-house; beyond we catch a glimpse of a projecting part of the saw-mill. On the right of the picture are the two barns with the open gate between; The barns are in the color that Nature, with the added frescoing of exposure, gives to all things. The picture was sketched in August-mid-summer- and is of almost photographic exactness. The only exception was the flock of sheep on the grassy knoll opposite the gate leading into the yard between the barns, and the two figures a boy and a girl in the roadway; Grandmother Gee always persisted they were the pictures of Sullivan and Isabel.

Stephen Gee, a brother of Solomon, came to Marlow in 1774-5. His first purchase of land was Nov.3, 1774, and was of 50 acres; the deed covered three-fourths of the saw, corn and grist-mill. This was bought of Elisha Mack November 7, 1774. Stephen Gee purchased of Elias Sawyer 94 acres. Oct.20, 1775 he bought 50 acres of Sylvanna Huntley, son of widow Mary Huntley, and Feb.24, 1778, 50 acres more of Nathan Huntley; these purchases constituted the home farm. There was probably other land taken from public domain.

If we are to credit Mr.Jones, Stephen Gee in 1775 began work at his trade of clothier in a little shop back of Horace Gee's house. Stephen Gee's wife was Eunice Moor, daughter of Asa Moor, of Lyme, Conn.; there were three sisters; Eunice married Stephen Gee, Esther married Rufus Huntley and Ruth married Daniel Way; these three families settled in Marlow.

Stephen Gee's children born to him in Lyme, Conn., were Nathan, Asa, Anna, Solomon 2nd, Stephen, Jr., and Dorcas, Eunice and Elisha were born in Marlow.

It is my impression that the original cabin connected with the farm was located in the old orchard, to the left as you go the old road to Marlow Hill. The house of my earliest recollection was a wood colored, one story house, standing near the sugar-house of today, and there were two old ladies living in the house, Aunt Annie Brown and Anna Miller. The Annie Brown was the widowed daughter of Stephen Gee and mother of Selden Brown. This house stood there for years after the house in which you were born was built.

(Eight typed lines tells of land given his sons.)

In 1794 Solomon Gee married Miriam Miller, daughter of Lemuel Miller, (See 3-28). Miriam was one of a family of eleven children. One of the sisters married Gurdon Huntley, father of Albert Huntley, the husband of Aunt Lucy, a sister of your grandfather Gee.

We have as yet no record showing how Solomon came by his farm in the Miller neighborhood. I hardly think he served as long as the famous Biblical character did, seven years; possibly the farm went with the bride, -a wedding gift on account of "the love and goodwill he owed his daughter." This is a matter for further research. On the 18th of January 1806 after his other sons were married and provided for, Stephen Gee deeded to his youngest son, Elisha Gee., the remaining portion of the homestead. On the 25th of January, same year, he made his will making Elisha Gee sole executor. Stephen Gee seems to have dealt justly with his children. In his will we find this peculiar feature; "I hereby give to my four sons, Nathan, Asa, Solomon and Stephen, Jr., each of them the use of my saw-mill, one week each, beginning with my beloved son Nathan the first week the next spring as soon as the water will afford." I have auspicion that after the boys had availed themselves of the saw-mill privileges there was not much left for home consumption.

(Then follows list of Stephen's children and date of marriage, also date of his and his wifes death. See 2-15)

MARRIAGE OF ELISHA GEE.

On a bright spring morning, Apr. 17, 1813, Elisha Gee and Judith Brown were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, at her home where on Feb. 19, 1774 her father and mother were married. The History of Newport, N.H., has this in regard to the ceremony:-

"At the wedding the whole town was invited and two sleighs, all there were in the town, and twenty-four ox-sleds conveyed the guests to the wedding." At the time of Elisha Gee's wedding modern journalism and the reporter of to-day were unknown,-and we are left to draw upon our imagination to furnish up the wedding feast, the trosseau of the bride, the best man, the giving away of the bride, the presents of the groom. It is possible that among the wedding presents was a pony, saddled and bridled for the wedding journey. Either that or Capt. Elisha Gee mounted the blushing bride on the pillion of his own saddle for the delightful journey over the hills and down the bridle-path by the place where years afterwards a cruel accident left its scar on the forehead of Grandmother Gee which she carried to her grave.

(Then follows list of their children, their births, marriages, gr. children, little Nathan B. Gee's death, place of burial in "West Yard" and states the family of Elisha and Judith were b. to them in the old house which landmark was taken down about 1865, the present house erected 1843; All this data is in its place.)

A SAD DAY AT THE HOMESTEAD.

Eliza A. Gee (4-806) was the first of the family, excepting the infant Nathan B., to pass out of this life. She came from Lynn to spend her usual summer vacation at the old home. While in the enjoyment of her vacation her services were needed at the sick bed of a sister in Washington (an adjoining town). Cheerfully responding, she added the loving care of sister to the duties of a nurse. In her weakened condition she contracted the disease and after a few days of acute suffering, on Aug. 29, 1856, at the age of 28 she passed away.

Eliza was the youngest and a great favorite so her early death came as a great shock to her friends in Marlow, and to her friends in her adopted home. I have often thought of the sad journey of your grandfather, bringing the remains of a loved sister over the hills of Washington and by the doors of anxious and sympathizing neighbors,-bringing to my mind this passage in Lord Tennyson's "Elain": See "Launcelot and Elaine". lines 1145-1155.

"Sister farewell forever, and again
Farewell, sweet sister, parted all in tears,
Then rose the dumd old Servitor, and the dead
Oar'd by the dumb went upward with the flood
All her bright hair streaming down,-
And she, herself in white
All but her face for she did not seem as dead
But fast asleep, and lay as though she smiled."

All of Elisha and Judith's family except your grandfather Horace have laid down the burden of life. Grandfather Elisha was a man universally respected. The Rev. N.R. Wright who had the happiness to enjoy his acquaintance for 35 years speaks of him as "one greatly beloved as a husband, father, grandfather, and neighbor.

A man ever prompt to fulfil his promises and discharge his various obligations. He was a good citizen and an honest man."

Grandmother Judith Gee was a sweet woman, tactful and loyal at all times to her family and their interests. In the complacency of youth I used to think I was her favorite grandwhild; as I grew older and realized the wealth of her deeds I became convinced that her heart was big enough to embrace all her children, grandchildren and friends. A lady, a distant relative writes me: "Aunt Judy, as we always called her, had a welcom for everybody." This was true, and true of all that have presided over that household from the days of Stephen Gee to present time. The hospitality of this old homestead has been proverbial; The latch-string was always out.

HORACE GEE and AMANDA GEE.

I was ten years old at the time Uncle Horace brought his bride to the homestead where Grandmother Judith had held sway for so many years. (See 4-801)

I think there was hardly a summer from that time until I was married but I found it a pleasure of the year to spend my vacation with Uncle Horace and Aunt Amanda. As I look back upon those days it seems to me that Aunt Amanda was called upon to solve a somewhat difficult problem. Grandfather and Grandmother were in their declining days and there was more or less feeling of proprietorship among the brothers and sisters that were born and bred at this old manor-house,-a natural feeling perhaps. To this place and situation Aunt Amanda brought a loving and Christian character, an equipoise a temper and disposition rarely found; assuming her duties, she became the mistress in the truest sense. Her judgment was law and for over 30 years she as wife and mother governed their household, and was universally respected.

(Then follows data of George F. Gee (5-700) and wife Nellie and their children which is properly recorded.)

This brings the sketch down to your day and generation. With subsequent events you are more familiar tham I; The death of your dear mother, the marriage of your father and the birth of little Ruth.

I cannot close without a word in retrospection: My father, to lessen his burdens and cares, sent me to Marlow each summer to help Uncle Horace in hoeing potatoes, getting in hay and any and all things a boy might do toward his board; but with the ramblings over the farm, "keeping house" with cousin Iasbel on the ledges, strawberrying with Aunt 'Manda, catching suckers in the brook during high water in the spring, hanging around the saw-mill and riding on the carriage on wet and rainy days, my help was doubtful.

I remember a story told me in those days by a local "Ananias" that comes to me every time I go into a saw-mill: "A bear came down out of the woods," so goes the story, "and made for the man tending the mill. The man had adjusted the log and started the saw when his attention was called to bruin; The man had no time or inclination to stop the saw and made tracks for a place of safety. Mr. Bruin walked into the mill, cocked his eye at the bright saw doing its faithful work, mounted the log, raised himself on his haunches, and embraced the saw; Well there may be a divided opinion as to the truth of the story; but if Bruin made good his intention there could be no doubt but there was a divided bear." You need not be haunted by this story as I have been, for this is not the mill nor the farm. There is, however, a hero in the family way back that got the better of a bear.

I have alluded to a cruel hurt to my Grandmother Gee. You are doubtless familiar with this "twice told tale." If noy, briefly it is this: Grandmother had mounted her horse for a saddle trip to Marlow Hill; as she got over the brow of the hill out of sight of the home she met a couple of ladies in a chaise on their way to the homestead. Grandmother's pony frightened at the novelty of their conveyance, became unmanagable and in jumping to one side the girth to the saddle broke precipitating Grandmother, saddle and all down the sharp decline. The frightened ladies drove on to the house and announced the accident by saying: "We have killed your mother!" Hastening to the spot Grandmother was found climbing up the side hill, her face covered with blood. It was a fearful fall, a wonder she was not killed. I have visited the rock on which she struck, many times.

I send this at the time Harold, your dear brother, takes to himself a helpmate. May we not hope that in due time he may find it a pleasure, as well as a duty, to return to the old homestead; That would make five generations of an honored and honorable family. May the family live long and prosper.

Trusting that this sketch, imperfect as it is in many respects, but prepared by one of your cousins, the oldest of his generation will be of interest to you, and wishing all the people, as well as yourself the compliments of the season, I remain,

Affectionately your cousin."

(S.W.Huntley, so George F.Gee said was the author of this letter.

by Alven M.Smith.

Five months in the summer of 1926 gave pleasant and eventful occasions in the lives of Mrs.Smith and myself for after three years in So.Pasadena,Calif.,we spent the months amid friends and relatives in the New England hills.

Arriving in Alstead,N.H.,to visit old parishoners,we were whisked away to the George F.Lewis farm six miles up in the hills of Marlow where we found the old ancestral homes of my ancestors and made my first visit to their burial places.

Less than one mile from the farm was the "WEST SIDE MARLOW CEMETERY",the oldest one in the town (unless a small one in which I suppose there are none of my people),the first,or among the first graves being that of little Abner Gee,3-102,who d.Sept.12,1777 and is spoken of by S.W.Huntley in his Historical Sketch (ond follow- this page by Percy T.Smith). This cemetery was largely deserted when the village one was begun about 1830(?).

When I first entered this "West Side"cemetery it was filled with blackberry briars,small birch and cherry brush which tore my clothes and prevented reading the stones; later it was wowed and the stones reset which are continually falling down. Two years ago the Marlow citizens made a "bee" and mowed and cut the three or four inches thru trees,clearing the ground nicely tho it is quick to grow up.

This cemetery of perhaps one and one-half acres lies east of a north and south highway over a small hill which extends thru the middle of the cemetery at right angles to the road. More than one-half of the headstones in it are the firm,black slate (some are gray) well preserved and elaborately carved with the usual designs of weeping willows,urns,scroll work and geometrical figures. Epitaphs are on nearly every stone,the character of which is less maudling than in many cemeteries,still of a childish and theological type characteristic of the age and church; few are as sensible as that of gr.gr.grandmother Mehitable (Wood) Smith,6-500,reading:"Virtue liveth beyond the grave."

Saturday,Aug.21st,refusing Mr.Lewis' horse and buggy,I walked 13 miles from the Lewis farm to Marlow village post office,saw George F.Gee,-a cousin 'o mine",5-700,who gave me much data written by his cousin ,Mr.S.W.Huntley,5-900,then up the Newport road past the ruins of Gee's mill which I remembered passing when Leon Trow took Mrs.Smith,her niece Alice Blackmer and our son Percy and myself up thru Lempster Street,East Lempster,Lempster Mountain,past the John Smith home in Lempster,Gees mill,Stone Pond,back to Alstead.

Continuing,I walked to the head of Stone Pond and looked to the right where I was sure gr.gr.grandfather John Smith lived close by but not having time or strength to go there (see Percy's letter next page) took the left hand took the left hand of the four-corners road which I expected led up over Marlow Hill. It did and was lined with trees so I could not look off; not a house in sight but old apple orchards and desolate rose clumps at frequent intervals told a mute story of other days. A poor,unused road,steep hills, led on and up until approaching the top,clearings came in sight and the road was filled with the autos of blueberry pickers. At the top were old,wornout fields of over ripe grass,a large collection of grass-covered stone foundations of probable buildings and not knowing where I was or what they were I asked some hay-makers luckily near by,and was told I was at the site of the first village of Marlow,and Gen.Huntley's Tavern of which Uncle Dudley B. Smith,9-3803,in his early visit there had written.(See his History in Historical Section.) Nothing now remains ,save a small, modern summer cittage,the Universalist church and one other having been taken down and removed to the village,and the rest,stores, dwellings,tavern,all became ruins and finally burned clean to the ground. Uncle Dudley's pathetic comment when at the site of the John Smith homestead in 1874 and looking across the small valley wrote: "And there was Gen.Huntley's hill,shorn of its glory!"made me sadly rehearse Goldsmith's "Deserted Village" for here,as in so many other first villages in the New England hills,is the reminder of what was one time a "Sweet Auburn."

Continuing my walk I passed down the hill toward Baker's Corner on the So.Acworth road,thinking of former days when my Smith-Gee-Beckwith ancestors traveled that road,resting their horses up the steep hills,looking well to their harnesses as they descended the same steep hills,wending their way in funeral train,or about their business and social activities.

Strange are the ways of life! Fifty-two years after Uncle Dudley wrote those words,not knowing a soul would care to read them,-after Alice and Percy and I had been to Aberdeen,Washington,to live,to California to visit and later to live the remainder of our lives,-then while visiting east and in Alstead,N.H.,with the sole purpose of seeing the Lewises and others in the village,-there we were without thought of doing so,or that such sights were possible, set plump down in the midst of Marlow hills among ancestral scenes hunting them out,walking among them,brushing the moss from their headstones and cutting the brush from their graves.

Verily,Mr.Lewis (probably my relative) moving temporarily to his 100 year old farm to hay and to repair it,his inviting our friends Rev.Frances A.Kimball and sister Helen,then ourselves there,all conspired to lead (oblige) me to this occasion. And I seemed to be the only one to of all the Smiths so sircumstanced as to be able to freshen and add this link in our family chain. Will there be any to follow (Percy did the next year)? Soon we may expect remoteness of time,decay of homes and graveyards,cremation,far reaches instead local living,fading from earth of Colonial blood,-will drop the curtain of oblivion over sacred scenes and precious memories. It is the way of Nature.

A VISIT to MARLOW,N.H.,MARLOW HILL and WEST SIDE CEMETERY, by Percy T.Smith,11-2501,while vacationing in N.H.

W.Chesterfield,N.H.,Aug.26,1927.

Dear Father:

Yesterday Mr.Herbert Gee,of Winchester,N.H.,the gr.gr.gr.grandson of Stephen Gee,2-15,and Mr.Elgin Jones (the Marlow historian),and I went over the old ground of [illegible] the Gees and Smiths in Marlow. Much of it was the same course you traced in last summer's walk up Marlow Hill. We also went over to Baker's Corner where Solomon Gee, son of our ancestor Solomon in Lyme,Conn.,and sister of our grandmother Deborah,lived. We discovered the cellar-hole where the wagon was overturned and where the Gees spent their first night. Solomon's farm covered some 150 acres of excellent country,the view from which was marvelous,but little less than that from MarlowHill.

From Baker's Corner,(Dr.Baker was considered the richest man in Marlow town; when he died he had $6000; What fabulous wealth!),we went Marlow "West Side" cemetery. You can imagine the interest I experienced hunting up Grandmother Mehitable's grave,Abner bro.of gr.gr.gr.grandfather John. I traced without difficulty all the other graves you refered to; We discovered nothing you didnot have except on the stone of young Abner Gee,(3-102),son of Solomon and Martha. With no little difficulty we deciphered the following:

"Mo 1777

Abner Gee
Age 12 yrs 2 mos.
Died Sept the 9

You that read and then pas by prepair for death for you must dye
N ou"

Some of this you will note is a correction on the S.W.Huntley notes which is: "Died Sept.12"; apparently they could not decipher the verse,and it is no end of a job owing to the old rough field stone upon which it is printed,or rather cut.

 From this cemetery we went to Marlow Hill. I enjoyed the view from which all mountains of any importance may be picked out, the White Mt.range,the Green,as well as many peaks round about.

From here we went down the hill to the head of Stone Pond and discovered the site that Mr.Jones said was without question my gr.gr.gr.grandfather John Smith's old home. It is the first site on the right after leaving the pond going up the hill at right angles to the main Keene to Alstead road. Only the house,I should say a house,and horse barn are standing. Mr.Jones is positive that the ell is the original,-I can't prove it,-anyway he seemed sure it was the site. The next house up the road is the Abner Smith site. Abner was a blacksmith,-is there any connection between that and my gr.father David's blacksmith-farmer interests? Mr.Jones said Abner sold John the farm John lived on and described the two farms as some of the best ground in Marlow. (The copy of the deeds that follow prove John and bro.Abner bought the farm for 1000 pounds and soon Abner sold of his share all but 47 acres on the east side to John.)

Do you recall the story of gr.gr.gr.grandfather John's hunting for treasure under a stone in that region? He was not so far off at that for a felspar mine has been discovered on Abner's farm.

How did gr.gr.gr.grandfather John happen to leave Marlow for Lempster? (The raising of cattle was profitable and good pasturage was in that town,-and but little else; so the families lived a short time there I suppose.-A.M.S.).

Mr.Jones showed me the old Marlow town books having a record of Christopher Smith paying a poll and real estate tax. Mr.Jones is a splendid character and we enjoyed him greatly. He is writing on "Marlow as I Know It"and hopes to publish it some day.

Why did John and Christopher go to Williamstown,Vt.? (A casual glance shows Christopher went to Williamstown,bro.John to Barre, sister Sarah to Sutton,sister Mehitable to Rochester,all in Vt., probably with the restless searching for new and cheap,good lands as no war bounties were then given.-A.M.S.)

Your affectionate son,
Percy T.Smith.

 EARLY TRADITION and HISTORY of this SMITH FAMILY, by Dr.D.B.Smith,9-3803,and others.

(The inspiration for this Genealogy was due largely to the many letters over 150 years old and now before us,and to Dr.D.B.Smith's attempt to put in historical form all he learned of the subject from those letters and papers he so carefully preserved.

That our later oportunity of research in Colonial histories has changed it somewhat and pushed back two generations the first entrance to America seems authentic,but scarcely allays the wonderment how that early tradition of the run-a-way John from his London merchant parents (claimed also by a so far unconnected family, "The Bride Brook" or Nehemiah Smith descendants) came so firmly implanted in the 7th generation so the Rev.Eleazer Smith,7-503, could declare: "I have often heard Father and my uncles speak of the death of their gr.grandfatherby wheels in the mill".

To our understanding this gr.grandfather would belong to the 3d generation,not the 1st,and yet 30 years to a generation (which is a general average) accords with our tabulation of generations.

Of course tradition need not halt at exactness,and who even now counts the "greats"acurately? So we place facts,tradition and careful reasoning before the reader,hoping further study will solve the situation which we gather,as you will see,from Dr.D.B.Smith and the Rev.Eleazer Smith in the following preamble and subject matter.-A.M.S.)

"We have the assured tradition by Rev.Eleazer Smith,7-503,that John Smith was the only child of a wealthy,London merchant,who fell violently in love with the house-maid. The girl was sent away John shipped for the coloniesthe parents from the wharf vainly tried to recall him,-but they never met again.

John landed at New London,Conn.,and engaged to tend a grist-mill at East Lyme,Conn.; He married the miller's daughter,became proprietor of the mill,and met his death by being thrown against the wheels in the mill.

Further assured history relates that he left a family,descendants of whom fought in the Colonial and Revolutionary wars,journied to Marlow and Lempster,N.H.,then to the West."

But let the following letters and naratives we have arranged,tell the facts,more interesting and romantic than many a novel. The not easy investigation begins with the following letter written by Dr. D.B.Smith,9-3803,and in possession fo the compiler;

"Plainfield,Vt.,Sept.12,1876.

To Rev.Eleazer Smith,(7-503)
Concord,N.H.:

Dear Sir,- You will be surprised at receiving a letter from me,but in this year of Jubilee I hope to "claim kindred with you and have my claim allowed."

My grandfather,Christopher Smith,(7-301)was your cousin I believe (then follows an account of descendants proving it).

My father's relatives living mostly in N.H.,where I had never been,had onlt a shadowy personality to me like the inhabitants of another world; as grandfather from time to time brought letters to our house informing us that uncle this or aunt that was dead,the tidings so pregnant of ill to others,to me was only the changing of existance of strangers from one shadowy state to another,-scarcely more so.

In Aug.1874 I accompanied my father to Lempster and Marlow,N.H.; From Lempster Green (now called "Street" or Lempster,1921,-AMS.)

we passed by the homestead of Uncle Russell to the residence of our Cousin Matilda (Smith) Sabin, thence through East Lempster on the old Washington road until we reached the summit where we turned off sharply to the right and in a few minutes drive reached the ruins of the old house in Lempster where my father was born; Continuing our journey we passed the old home of Uncle Israel, then that of your father in Marlow and reached the old homestead where my father lived from the age of 7 to 11.

There was the pond and the brook where I had so often heard him tell of catching suckers; there was the rock where great grandsire John was beguiled by a fortuneteller to dig for gold or silver; and there was Gen.Huntley's hill shorn of its glory.

Great grandfather died in 1841, aged 88 yrs. but did not outlive his credulity; I can remember how carefully all reports of a fortuneteller were kept from him in Williamstown, Vt., who claimed to read the future in a black stone. The location of Uncle Silas farm in Goshen was shown me, who so mysteriously disappeared.

Having seen these old homesteads their former owners were no longer mythical personages, but real persons of flesh and blood whom I could distinguish from each other.

I have a pretty complete record of Silas Smith's family who, as I have it was born at Lyme, Conn., in 1722, and died at the same place in 1777. I didnot get the date of Abner's death; have you any record of the family earlier than that?

I have been informed that you have visited Lyme and the graveyard there; Did you find any family land-marks or records on the old farm of Silas Smith? I am in hopes of visiting Philadelphia this fall and as tickets are sold via New London if anything of interest could be seen I might visit Lyme.

I should be glad to receive any information you may have gleaned and if any places were identified by you describe them so I can find them. Did you examine the town records?

Respectfully yours, Dudley B.Smith.

This letter brought the quick and cordial reply:-

"Concord, N.H., Sept.13, 1876.

My hitherto unknown Relative;-

Give me your hand. I am right glad to find a Smith who, like myself is an enthusiastic lover of Family History. In respect to veneration for ancestors I am a China Man,-I admit that the Smiths are a people "To Fortune and to Fame unknown" but not the less dear to me. I am much indebted to you for what you communicate to me concerning your Family; your Father and Uncle were never forgotten by me. Our intimacy existed at the time of life when impressions are deep and lasting Hundreds of times have I recalled our School days - our little rivalries & youthful sports & I shall soon follow them.

As to our Family History we have the Traditional and the assured Tradition says that John Smith was the only child of a wealthy London Merchant who fell violently in Love with the House Maid. This you know would be a mortal offence in a Aristocratic English Family The girl was sent away privately - The son after searching in vain for her determined on a course which would in his opinion amount to an adequate retaliation - Taking only sufficient Money to defray his voyage to the Colonies he Shipped on board a Vessel about to Sail & just as the anchors were shipped and the Sails set he saw from the Deck his Parents on the Wharf his Mother especially Frantic in her endeavors to hail the Vessel. They never met or heard from each other afterward - He landed at New London and engaged to tend a Grist Mill in East Lyme - married the Millers Daughter & become owner of the Mill.

So much for TRADITION - I will add our Ancestors generally believed it and many years since there was talk of sending Hon D.M. Smith (7-605)as a Agent to look up the Property for in English Law Possession never gives Title to Property. (We have letters now before us from Daniel M.Smith to Christopher Smith,7-301)considering that oad other matters.-A.M.S.)

I now come to assured History. I have often heard Father and my Uncles speak of the Death of their Great Grandfather who was killed by being thrown among the Wheels of that old fashioned Mill & give the particulars He left a Family the oldest Son Samuel being my (great,-D.B.S.) Grandfather. I visited his grave in 1833,-and now I will by your request describe the place of the Nativity of my Father and his Family.

I took the Road to East Lyme at New London - about 5 miles from New London I came to a Creek of Salt Water around which is a small Village called Niantic - Here I found an old Woman who had been a Playmate with my Father who directed me to the House where Silas Smith Family were born & where he died - She also pointed to me the old graveyard where I supposed I might find some Record of the Family It is a half mile from the Village and near a STONE MEETING House I entered the Gate and observing at my right on the highest part of the Yard some Grave Stones I went to them The first I came to was of Portland Stone of decent apperance - I read with intense feeling "To the Memory of SILAS SMITH" The lettering was perfect as though engraved but the yesterday,-I observed a small Stone partly sunk in the Ground -The letters were partly under Ground & all filled with Moss Like old Mortality I worked long to decipher & make them plain & was richly rewarded First I got the word SMITH then made out Samuel & then acertained he had a TITLE. What is it Am I then of high lineage? Is it Hon? No. Governor? No I read carefully and I have it - It is Sargeant Samuel Smith. Now,my kinsman,let me not be lifted up above the Common People.

A mile or more and I entered the Old Home of the Smiths It was a respectable 2 story House a few rods from the old dilapidated Meeting House of Elder Lee - Some 60 Rods North was an old fashioned House - once the home of the titled Sargeant & perhaps of the original London John.

Samuel had 2 sons - Silas & Samuel jr The latter inherited the Old Home - Silas probably built on the South part of the Farm,- I found the Grandson of Samuel jr living in the old Homestead a Merchant and Post Master.

Your Great Grandfather John learned his Trade at Old Lyme - Now as to my Fathers Family I suppose you have heard their Names The eldest Hester (the H and the t only are sure,-AMS) died in 1874 at the age of 90 - only the youngest (Mrs Richardson) and myself are living All were honest industrious Pious - generally blest with good Children & a Competancy I have been in the Ministry Forty Nine Years, Fourteen of which I have been Chaplain of the State Prison - In VT I have been stationed in St Johnsbury Lyndon Danville Montpelier chelsea &c In N.H. Hanover Clarmont Dover Concord Portsmouth Great Falls &c

I am the oldest Methodist Preacher in Active Service in N Hampshire and last Sabbath Preached my Six Thousand Four Hundred & Twentieth Sermon - more I think than any Minister of the Methodist church in N H On the Sabbath I preach twice and hold three other services with the Sick & the females - The imprisonment of 2 Murderers for a whole year previous to their execution in January imposed quite an additional amount of care.

In 1855 I published a Book entitled Nine years among Convicts" which passed through 2 Editions and met a favorable reception.(See extract from it further over.-A.M.S.)

I have been rather hard student up to the present and though 71 yrs.of age keep up my studies - I have been Kuite interrested in your Profession as when preaching at the Seat of Dartmouth I attended On the Medical Lectures

Of my 4 children Lovina Married Rev Dr.A.J.Church who has been stationed in Providence Boston &c Eleazer is a Machinist and the others a Daughter & a Son are with us both good Scholars - My Son (Rev.Albert L.Smith,8-1705,-AMS.) I intend for the University in Boston. (M.E.church Theo.school.-AMS.) My present Wife was one of the Ackworth Grouts eighteen years younger than myself & a Graduate of the N.H.Female College in the same Class with my Lovina.

I have a very pleasant House which I built in 1845 and I trust my my circumstances place me beyond the probability of Want

Through a long Life,Faith in Jesus and Love for my Good Heavenly Father has made my life pleasant and prosperous. In peace with God & the whole World I am waiting for the Summons which must soon come. An experience of more than a half century has disipated all doubts as to the reality and excellence of Religion and the final and endless happiness of all who Love Jesus and serve God - I am a descided Methodist but no Bigot and I look with Joyous anticipation to the time when I shall meet the good of all Classes where the weary are at rest. Please write me when convenient Love to your Family I have Preached in Plainfield several times - Knew Dr.Bancroft I should delight to wait on you at Concord

In love, Your Kinsman

Eleazer Smith"

SMITH HISTORY by Dr. D. B. SMITH,(9-3803)

(Like many an effort by all busy people,Dr.D.B.Smith could not do justice in gathering and tabulating his family history;but he wrote the following,dated July 3,1876:

"Silas Smith was born at Lyme,Conn.,A.D.1722and died at the same place in Jan.1777,aged 55 years. Deborah Gee,wife of Silas Smith was born Lyme,Conn.,1731 and died at Marlow,N.H.,Sept._1820 aged89

Her brother,Solomon Gee,removed to Marlow,N.H.,and through his influence his sister's family followed. She lived with her son John most of the time or with his children Christopher or John. The children of Silas and Deborah Smith were born at Lyme,Conn.

John Smith,born Nov.30,1755; died at Barre,Vt.,Dec.5,1841,aged 88 years 5 days. At 14 he was apprenticed by his father to a man in Old Lyme,I think,to learn the Tanners and Curriers and Shoemakers trade. His master sent to England and got the tools to which he was entitled at the termination of apprenticeship some of which are now in existance.(See Alven Smith,8-1000,-AMS.).

Subsequently to the burning of New London,Conn.,by the British he removed to Marlow,N.H.,where he purchased a farm (See deed for it further over,-AMS.)about a half mile northerly of Marlow Hill.

or Gen.Huntley's tavern,and in the same school district. The farm lay just across the valley from that village and corners onto a saw-mill pond,partly a natural pond I think, (Stone Pond,-AMS.) a small brook passing through the farm and emptying into the pond.

This brook was full of suckers in the spring and in my father's boyhood they caught them by placing "raddles" like drag-rake heads into the brook above and below a hole in the brook and then catching the suckers or throwing them out with the hands.

John was an excellent shoe-maker and always worked much of the time at that trade. The weak point in his character was a belief in fortune-tellers; one having told him there was gold or silver in a large rock on his farm lying below and between his house and Marlow Hill so he spent several days blasting for it. Some men subsequently have,I think,repeated the foolish labor.

For many of the last years of his life he lived with his son John on the old farm in Marlow,and when that was sold,on the farm owned by his son John west of So.Barre,Vt.,where Hiram Martin now lives. (A brick house one-half mile up the hill at the junction of the road to Barre city.-A.M.S.) I remember him as he lived for a short time earlier with his son Christopher in Williamstown,Vt.

While in Marlow,N.H.,he bought a lot of land in Lempster,N.H.,adjoining which lay on the road nearest to Washington line and was south east of the point more generally called Lempster Mountain. (See the deed to it further over,-AMS.) When I visited it in Aug.1874 with my father we passed through East Lempster,then up a long hill which was the old stage road to Washington and Newport I think,until we reached the top then turned sharply to the right and south,passing by a house near the corner where lived one of father's schoolKmates who was away from home.

At this corner was formerly the school-house but it had been removed. About one-half mile or more from this corner we reached the site of the old homestead where Alven and Orren were born, The house had fallen but the floors were in place.

It was a one-story house,about 25 or 27 by 15 divided into two rooms and a cubby-hole behind the chimney which occupied quite a part of the scanty space. The smaller of these two rooms was used for a bed-room and also a weaving room which must have left scarce space to turn in. The house was upon the west side of the road,the barn was burned,but stood upon the east side, The farm was very poor,wet,cold and stony.

When Christopher was married his father gave him the use of this farm where he lived for a number of years. He accumulated some property by letting out cattle and retaining a share of the increase in stock,which when well managed brought a a large rate of interest.

After living here some years he went to Marlow and lived with his father,and John,Jr.,went onto the farm in Lempster.

In 1811 Christopher went to Williamstown,Vt.; The crops were harvested but the great stumps of cornstalks left in the ground decided him to buy a farm there which corners into Barre where he removed in 1812. (The Henry Martin farm: from the village toward Barre,take the Berlin road and it lay down in the valley; a little way further up,the Fred Whitney farm,was where Aaron Smith Martyn lived and Alven,son of Christopher,came "cross lots"courting Lydia,dau. of Aaron,so she used to tell her gr.sons.-A.M.S.).

Christopher lived on this farm until about 1851 when we have his long articles of agreement with persons who rented the farm of him and he removed to Williamstown,Vt.,village where he died.

(The house was at the crest of the hillnorth of the cemetery.-AMS)
His wife was Lucretia Beckwith,dau.of a Baptist minister (Rev. Eleazer Beckwith,6-400,A.M.S.)who went out to Unity,N.H.,(north of Lempster,-AMS.)to preach where he was taken with apoplexy and in a day or two was brought home a corpse.

But to go back to the old homestead in Lempster,N.H. We descended southerly toward Marlow along the road lying near Washington line and separated from the main part of Lempster and from the village by a high range of hills,or mountains for some two or three miles; one road,and that a poor one,passing over the ridge toward the villages. About one mile from the homestead the road curved around the side of the hill,or valley,the radai pointing toward Washingtom.

In the valley were several houses,one of them lying on the lower eastern side of the road was the former residence of Israel Smith. His wife was a Powers,from Croyden. Passing along some two miles we reached the farm in Marlow formerly owned by Abner Smith. He was a Universalist; his family were Methodists which caused some differences between them; his son Eleazer is a Methodist minister and has been Chaplain to the Concord,N.H.,State Prison. The next farm,a few rods below,was the farm owned by his brother,John Smith, which has been described to you.

Of Silas Smith's children,Molly lived with Abner Smith and Amy was supported by John.Amy was insane from girlhood,and Molly,I think was not very capable at least.

Silas jr.owned a farm in Goshen,N.H.,(north-east of Lempster,-AMS) a mile or so southerly of Goshen Hill or church. He was a bachelor a roving,shrewd,money-maker. He went to New Orleans via Mississippi River in the days of river boatmen. He was supposed to have left some money with his brother-in-law,Bebee,(6-506). He (Silas Jr., 6-507,-AMS.)was for some time supposed to have been murdered by the river boatmen but Hon Daniel M.Smith(7-605),his nephew,went to Lyme,Conn.,and obtained the following facts: About the time Silas was expected back a tavern-keeper a few miles from Lyme stated that a man mounted on a good horse but shabbily dressed,stopped at his house one night; in the morning he took his saddle-bags, went out to a brook,or pond,to bathe and came back with a good suit of clothes on; he explained by saying that he had been among a rough set of people and didnot dare to dress well but had some relatives a few miles from there and thought he would fix up before visiting them. He said this man had one black eye and one blue eye and chewed tobacco,the quid he carried between his lower lip and his teeth,and this description applied to Silas Smith. A few weeks or months afterwards a horse was found in a pond in that vacinity near Lyme,or in that town. The tavern-keeper could not positively identify it as it was partially decomposed,but said it resembled it. (Then follows these words with a line drawn lengthwise thru them,-A.M.S.) Suspicion pointed to the Bebees but without further proof except they were not called very good people.

His farm was carried on by his brother Abner before his estate was settled and the farm sold.

Jemima Smith who married a Maples was quite rich.

Of Christopher Smith's sisters,Lucinda married Troop (Throop) Nichols,(7-305) who for a while lived on a farm southwest of Lempster Hill,or Green,but bought the tavern there which at that time was a good place for business. He was a good land-lord and except his rum selling business,a good man. His son Erastus (sometimes called "Rat",-AMS.)succeeded him in the business but the rumsellers curse,rum drinking,ruined him and in Aug.1874 he sold his interest to his niece who owned one-half before.

Sbout one-half mile from the corner (from East Lempster up the long hill to the turn to the right where the school house once was he has previously described,-AMS.) we passed some moist ground once wetter than now but there is still a slight causway;(log-road,-AMS.) When Alven Smith,(8-1000) was a boy and slept in the trundle-bed he heard his father,who had been away,whisper one morning to his mother that he had just seen a bear cross the road between the school-house and their home but cautioned her not to tell Alven. He durst not let them know he heard them and started reluctantly,but promptly for school.On his way home they had formed a ring to catch the bear and his uncle John was stationed on this corduroy road,or causway,but they didnot catch the bear. On this same road as we passed by the Israel Smith homestead and were somewhere near the line between Marlow and Lempster at a four corners of the road,much exposed to the wind,was the place where Alven when a boy was placed by his grandfather to head some cattle and nearly froze to death,freezing his face badly."

Dr.D.B.Smith visited Philadelphia,Penn.,Centennial Exposition Oct.17 to 21st,1876,reached New London,Conn.,the morning of the 24th,went to Niantic and East Lyme that day,took the cars the next morning for Concord,N.H.where he saw the Rev.Eleazer Smith,and from his diary,or travel book,(he always kept one) we take these notes which he intended the next year to use in a revision of the above history but only made a start.

"Silas Smith was a deacon in Elder Lee's church,Baptist, He was emphatically called by his neighbors an honest man.

Abner Smith(-502,son of Silas,was in the battle of White Plains and was carried off the field from exhaustion and the dysentery; on his way home he met his father who contracted the dysentery or camp-fever of which he at length died. His sons Israel and ___ (perhaps Silas) were at times in the Revolutionary army."

From his visit to the old homes and graveyards he drew the diagram copied on the following page and made these notes:

"Daniel Beckwith lives on the old Silas Smith farm perhaps.

"There was an old gristmill between Flanders and New London that is now a shoddy,or cotton batting mill." (See Miss Celeste E.Bush's letter further over.-AMS.)

"John Smith,1811 - 1869 lived on the old homestead north of the old Baptist meeting house of Elder Lee's. It is a two story white house where three roads meet. Across one of them and north east is a wood colored house that has been for many years occupied by an old man named Daniel Beckwith,and his house is perhaps the old house of Silas Smith which has been moved a few rods and repaired.

"The widow of Elisha Howard Smith lives opposite a Schoolhouse that is the site of the old Baptist church of Elder Lee. Some 40 rods northerly is the house of Widow John Snith,1811-1869,and Louise (Smith) Latham(8-2700,See her letter further over,). The road here bends around to the right down hill to toward the village of Flanders which is,I believe,some two miles distant. There is a cross-road that passes between the two story house of Mrs. John Smith and the old wood colored house of Daniel Beckwith.

This road passes northerly continuing nearly in the direction of the road leading by the schoolhouse.

Below is the diagram:

(Sept. 19, 1921. When the compiler lived in Alstead, N.H., he engaged Leon Trow with his Ford to take him ais wife, their son Percy and Alice Blackmer, Mrs. Smith's niece, to Lempster. We went via So. Acworth, probably the same road Uncle Dudley took, to Lempster "Street" (Lempster), where we saw the hotel once owned by "Troop" Nichols, then to East Lempster, climbed "The Hill" as uncle Dudley called it, (realy a long steep one called locally, "The Mountain") and at the top saw Mr. I.H. Hodgman who said he was 71 yrs. old and had lived on that farm since 1865; He described the old homes, -all gone now, one of which agreed with Uncle Dudley's description of the John-Christopher Smith homestead.

We passed the "bear-causway-hollow in the road", it being still moist and plainly the place described; at the homestead we found only a cellar-hole in the middle or further side, a mass of brick, a chimney foundation on which Leon took our pictures. The big door-yard, fields around and especially across the road where the barn was said to be, all was completely overgrown with brush, blackberries etc.; We ate apples from a tree in the door-yard and daydreamed of the past, thankful that we could say of our ancestors, that they knew enough to get out of there.

Continuing our journey past the homes Uncle Dudley told of, not knowing in our haste which they were, and having no time to investigate,until we came in the vacinity of Gee's mill and Stone Pond when we knew we were near the John Smith in Marow home where where gr.father Alven placed the "raddles"in the brook to catch fish.)

"Lempster,N.H.,July 2,1876.

"Dr.Dudley B.Smith(9-3803)

Dear Cousin; I thank you for writing to us ...I am not surptised to hear of your father's death,he seemed so feeble...I am glad you came down with him for the number of our relatives is small and growing less.

Lempster was Mother's native place...my uncles and aunts are all dead except one uncle in Calif.; I have one cousin in Lempster. When I think of the time we lived in Barre,Vt.,with our relatives around us...I should be glad to leave the farm and stock to visit there again.

Christopher (her brother) and wife are here. He was sick in Windsor Locks,Conn.; of Erastus (Nichols,8-1301) I can tell you no good...is immoral...has boarded in different places...is now in the insane asylum in Concord,N.H.; They took his opium away..had spasms....Jane (W.D.(Nichols) Stowell,9-8001) had some seventeen hundred dollars and they have picked it all away ...is now at Manchester,N.H. I think Erastus has been shattered ever since his wife's death. (sel.,6-504

Daniel Smith's son is on the old place. His father's name was Rus

I do not know the names further back than gr.gatandfather Silas, (5-205);they were of English descent. Grandfather (John,6-500)had four brothers:Abner-Israel-Russel and Silas; and four sisters,Elizabeth Beebe-Jemima Maples-Molly and Amy. Grandmother (Mehitable Wood) had I think only three brothers:Ben-John and Nathan who was taken prisoner by the British,confined in an old church in NewYork and starved to death his hands clasped through the banister to the pew a brick in his hand he had been gnawing. I have heard of two sisters,one married a Beckwith,one a Bidwell. When I go to Walpole N.H.,if I learn more I will let you know.

Father died 1867,Sept.28,aged 81....Uncle Russel died Aug.26,1824 aged 61; It is thought Uncle Silas was murdered at Salem,Conn. *(Later) I didnot go to Lyme but Norwich,(Conn.); Aunts Maples and Bebee resided there. Great Grandmother Smith's name was Deborah Gee. Erastus is better,is now at his bro.John's in Manchester.

I went to Concord,N.H.,and intended to visit Eleazer Smith,(7-503),cousin to Father; He is chaplain at the State Prison... has visited Lyme,(Conn.) and will know as far back as anyone,but made my visit at West Concord.

Give my love to your mother and brothers and families,also Horace and wife and Philenda(8-1003). From your cousin,L.M.Sabin.

*"I have a document written by a cousin (S.W.Huntley,5-900 in Gee section)that gives a lot of interesting facts regarding our ancestry. Solomon Gee and wife Martha,came to Marlow,N.H.,from Lyme, Conn.,in 1767. Solomon was the son of Solomon and Deborah Gee,of Lyme,Conn.

My great grandfather,Stephen Gee and wife Eunice Moor,of Lyme, Conn.,came to Marlow,N.H.,in 1774 and lived where I used to live.

My grandmother used to claim relationship with the Smith family. Some of the family settled in Vermont and I am quite sure the Smith and Gee families intermarried. Very truly yours,Geo.F.Gee."

East Lyme,Conn.,Oct.19,1880.

Dudley B.Smith,M.D.; Dear Cousin,

I address you as cousin as I am willing to be addressed in this way. ...I am sorry I cannot get information concerning your relatives. ,..Daniel Beckwith says the old records are not in our town for when the town was divided they were taken to North Lyme. He remembers sixty or seventy years ago his place was owned by his uncle Ruel Beckwith and it would be difficult to trace back to the time of Silas Smith. (Dr.D.B.Smith thought that the Silas Smith place,see his History and diagram.)

There are only two families of us here; I have only three Smith cousins; My gr.father's name was Elisha,and his father,Samuel; I am still living on the old place.

I was the only child of John and Rebecca,and she died with me in Colchester. My gr.father's name was Elisha and gr.mother's Naomi; gr.grandfather's name was Samuel and gr.grandmother's Lucretia.

The Smiths were good people and got comfortable living on their farms but I never knew of any FORTUNES. I have heard my Father speak of Silas Smith....I am 75 yrs.old and do my own writing (it was in excellent form,properly punctuated,spelled and capitalized,-AMS.) I am pleased to hear from you.

Selections from
"NINE YEARS AMONG THE CONVICTS",by Rev.ELEAZER SMITH,7-503, Chaplain of the N.H.State Prison,Congord,N.H.,15 years.

He was a M.E.church clergyman,see his sketch in this book,and produced a good sized book which is now in the N.H.State Library, Concord,N.H. It was written to show the conditions from which the criminal classes come,their experiences before and in prison,his care to teach them to read,provide them with books,AND TO SAVE THEIR SOULS which was his chief concern for,tho tolerant of other views,the "plan of salvation" he held strictly to and taught it with no uncertain sound.

His book is well written,is full of wit and keen humor,of quotations from Goldsmith and others,all nicely chosen. The following experience with "Hicks,the Burglar",must have given him deepest sorrow.

"His health began to decline.He was perfectly respectful and appreciative of the kindness of his friend that urged the seeking of salvation upon him. Nerving himself for the last trial of his firmness,he awaited the approach of death. He saw my deep emotion,and seemed attentive. I said to him,'Hicks,it is am overwhelming thought,that I am now sitting beside a man who will be dead to-morrow; that I now speak to a man to whom I cannot speak to-morrow, that I have prayed with a man who will never pray after this day, and that I am alone with one who soon must open his eyes on the changeless scenes of eternity." I paused and looked him full in the face. A single tear started,and stood on his cheek. I waited for a word from him, inwardly praying God to incline his soul to repentance. After a minute's pause he spoke. 'Mr.Smith,will you be so kind as to bring me some bits of paper with which to cover my medicine?' I went out,too sorrowful to weep. His last words were - but no,I will not write them."

That this was very teal to the good Eleazer,we may know by his quotation on another occasion:

" 'Tis not the whole of life to live,
Nor all of death to die."

"There is a death,whose pang
Outlasts the fleeting breath;
O,what eternal horror hangs
Around the second death."

His farewell sermon must have been good for their souls as he warned them that they"must be born again", that "Thou art a lost spirit,an alien from the Commonwealth of Israel! Thy principal business is to come back to God." "For there is a Great day of Judgment in which 'The Book of Life' shall be opened and oportunity ends at death. Then the sinner must go away into everlasting punishment through that gate on which is written:
'Who enters here must bid all hope farewell.' "

Such are some of the rugged sentiments of that earnest preacher. Had he been an Universalist like his father Abner,instead of his mother,what a power he would have been in Biblical interpretation and an urge to better living; She was a Methodist,and we may warrant was a valient woman. I am trying to find his children or their descendants,he had four,and I have reason to think they were useful people. (Mar.1,1922). (Later one was found. See Rev.Albert L.Smith (8-1705.

"THE STONE CHURCH , EAST LYME, CONN."
and
"THE STONE CHURCH BURIAL GROUND ASSOCIATION, INC."

Data from Miss Celeste E. Bush, Niantic, Conn., sec'y of "The East Lyme Historical Society" as given A.M.S., Sept. 1826.

"Across the road from the cemetery was built the STONE CHURCH as close to the old one as possible and the old one used while the new one was being built.

The site of the Stone church was bought after its destruction by The East Lyme Historical Society, who fenced it off with a lane to it from the highway and opposite the cemetery, and placed the bell on a cement foundation; a bronze plate states:

"STONE CHURCH BELL

Here stood the Stone Church, dedicated June 1833; taken down Oct. 1879; 30 feet due south was the first church of the East Society of Lyme, raised 1720, finished 1739, pulled down Apr. 1833."

The Stone Church was supported by taxes in old times (See laws for it at close of this article) and people not liking the method and doctrine built another further up the hill (or what is now called State Road toward Conn. River) and it was called "Elder Lee's Church, under whose pastorate some 500 joined the movement and the Stone Church number dwindled to two.

(The Stone Church was torn down 1879, just three years after Dr. D.B. Smith, 9-3803, visited the Smith graves and located them for posterity with a compass by the position of a church window. Alas!

"Chance and change are busy ever,"-A.M.S.)

(From Niantic we went west, or north, on a good road some distance then turned left keeping old Post Road to Flanders (or East Lyme) beyond which is a poor road down the hill called "Sunkipaug Brook," and later changed from the Indian name to "Bride Brook". There is a school house (1926) at fork of the roads, and a big boulder with a bronze plate reading: "Here stood the "Old Baptist Meeting House on the Hill," erected 1754, taken down and church removed to Flanders 1843. had about 500 members; Mother of 8 daughter churches; 13 ministers ordained within its walls." The (Elder?)Thomas Lee house was three miles further on.-A.M.S.)

"The Stone Church Burial Ground, in East Lyme, Conn., was going to decay a few years ago when some interested omes gathered and cut the brush, righted up the stones, and the wall being tumbled down, or in connection with that, a small sum was raised to build a rod or two as they thought it should be, then an appeal for a little more money brought the offer from some one,-the records will tell all this clearly,-of $100 if $900 could be added. The $1000 was soon raised and about $90 more which last sum was spent in cleaning the stones, the man doing some $300 worth for the good of the cause and the $1000 was placed as a fund the income only to be used for the cemetery.

A nice solid stone and cement wall, three feet, two inches high and three ft. two inches thick surrounds the whole, perhaps 3 acres in the cemetery; a tablet in the wall by the principal gate near the site of the Stone Church states:

This wall was erected by Jane Hills Smith as a memorial to
-her husband Charles Henry Smith of East Lyme and Hartford 1828 - 1907
a descendant of Richard Smith one of the first settlers of Lyme, Conn. A.D. 1910"

My Dear Mr.Smith;- At a meeting of our Society last Wednesday I told them of your quest and found that the grist-mill in which your ancestor served was in South Lyme on Four Mile River.

It went out of existance long ago but the story was remembered and the site is known. When you next come East you can view the very spot. Hoping you were repaid for your pious pilgrimage to the home of your ancestors,I remain,

THREE LINES OF SMITHS in or near NEW LONDON,CONN.,
as Miss Celeste E.Bush thought in 1926.

1. The "Stone House Smiths" who settled in Groton,Conn. (Her line or the Rev.Nehemiah Smith line.
2. The "Sunkipaug Brook" or "Bride Brook"Smiths. (No data.)
3. The "Four Mile Stream" Smiths. (West side of town of East Lyme or the John Smith of Lancaster,Mass.,as we call him.) But see a following list.

ORIGIN of NAME,"BRIDE BROOK".

Pub.Records of Solony of Conn.,1665-1678,by Trumbull,Vol.2, p.555, has a long account given in a deposition by the.Governor stating in brief the following:

"When we began the plantation in Pequot country,now New London, I determined the boundary should go to to the brook now called "Bride Brook"and that was outside Saybrook bounds. Jonathan Rudd was to be married in Saybrook,but a big snow hindered the magistrate going there; they wanted me,but I could not go to Saybrook (not legal)and they could not come to me at the plantation. I met them at Bride Brook with witnesses,where I had authority."

ORIGIN of NAME,"FOUR MILE STREAM".

In the Conn.Historical Collections by Barber,p.328 (From Dr. Dwight's Travels,Vol.2),we find the following:

"When Lyme was first settled,about 1664,it was a part of Saybrook. From Inantic River four miles west,a tract from the Sound to the northern boundary of Lyme and New London was reserved for the Indians when these towns were incorporated. Later both towns petitioned the Legislature for the tract. It was granted,but not divided. Lyme offered New Lomdon one mile and wanted three themselves; New London offered the same terms to Lyme: The towns chose two men each who fought with their fists; Lyme beat,and it was settled."

In the same volume,p.334: Lyme,Dec.6,1781. A long account of an American Guard watching a small boat near the house of the "noted Elisha Beckwith". The guard went to the house where ten armed men were; after the scuffle Elisha Beckwith and six men were captured four fled to the woods and were taken the next day.The boat load were British and Beckwith went off with the enemy. (This item and dates seem mixed; needs studying.-A.M.S.)

THE EARLY RECORDS OF LYME, CONN.

Were photographed and two volumes from 1680 - 1710 are kept in Niantic,Conn.,and the rest in Hamburg,in the town of North Lyme. All original records before 1835 are in _ Lyme,Conn. "In 1825 Thomas Walker kept an inn at Richardson's Stand but departed very suddenly. He was succeeded by Ransom Gee who sold to

"STONE CHURCH BURIAL GROUND",East Lyme,Conn.;(See p.109)

It is an interesting thought that since the removal of the Smith families from Lyme,Conn.,to Marlow,N.H.,and then to Barre and Williamstown,Vt.,so far as I know,the first visit to hunt up the graves in Lyme was made by Rev.Eleazer Smith of Concord,N.H.,in 1833,the next was in 1876 by Dr.Dudley B.Smith of Plainfield,Vt., and the last in Sept.11,1926 by myself,wife,our son John and his wife and son David to Lyme,and myself,wife and son Percy to Marlow,and myself and wife to Lempster,N.H.(John was living in Kingston,R.I.,and I in So.Pasadena,Calif.; Percy in New Bedford,Mass.

Four yrs.previously I had visited the graves in Walpole (Drewsville),N.H.,and those in Barre,and Williamstown,Vt. Who will take care of the next fifty year period?

"The Society of Colonial Wars" and perhaps another,"The Sons of Americam Revolution" have put up several nice,white,marble stones, plain and rectangular in shape,about 18 inches high,(or more),14 inches wide and 4 inches thick,at the foot of such service men with their record thereon.

The old stones were mostly of a reddish-brown,sometimes called Portland stone,and are as a whole well preserved in texture and engraving,and are being well cared for. The engraving is the simpler kind first used consisting of one weeping willow tree over an urn with moon faces entwined at the top of the stone which is of an oval form.

Many stones have epitaphs,several have none; some stones are broken off above the ground,while many more seem to be only a rough,small stone to mark the grave. They vary in height from a foot to five feet in the case of more modern white marble.

I hastily took the data from some as follows,not having time to take the great many Gees,Smiths,Beckwiths,of my line but presume the Sec'y of the Association can furnish all.

Dr.D.B.Smith's old diary or travel book,contains as he wrote: "Copy of the inscriptions on the grave-stones in the grave-yard near the Stone Church in East Lyme,Conn.;"

Dr.D.B.Smith continues:

"This head-stone is at the west end of the grave and south 40 degrees west of the window in the Stone Church and 13 ft. from the inside of the graveyard wall, and on the highest part of the graveyard. This stone is about 3 feet high and 5 inches thick. Silas Smith died Jan. 1777 instead of 1776 as his will and records show."

Silas Smith, 5-205, is buried in Lyme, Conn.; His son John and gr. son Christopher are buried in Williamstown, Vt.; His wife Deborah (Gee) Smith in "West Side" cemetery, Marlow, N.H.

Dr.D.B.Smith describes "This grave stone is of a reddish-brown, (Portland stone I think they call it). It is some 18 inches high and 5 inches thick. The foot of the grave lies next to the head of Silas Smith. It is 4 ft. from it and west 10 degrees south of it."

The first word "Here" is in the extreme top of the stone and is apparently spelled Hare.-A.M.S. (See 4-106)

A little ways away, lower down, and toward the middle of the yard are the Gee graves, (see 1-1, Gee section) and when Rev. Eleazer Smith and Dr.D.B.Smith visited the cemetery they did not seem to know the other half of the family were close by the Smith graves.

This stone is reddish-brown, about three and one-half ft. high and four inches thick. At the foot is a nice white, marble marker put there by the Society of Colonial Wars and states:

"Laurels may flourish round the conqueror's tomb
But happier they who win the world to come
The Christian has a silent field to fight

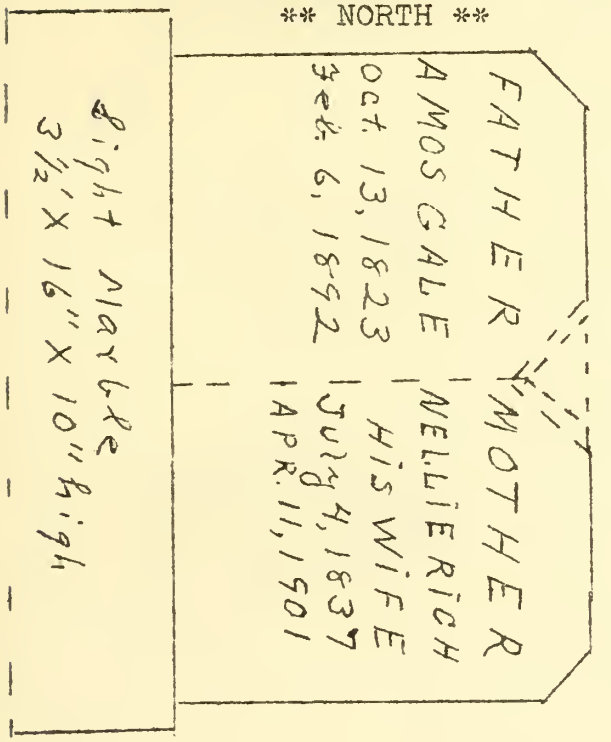
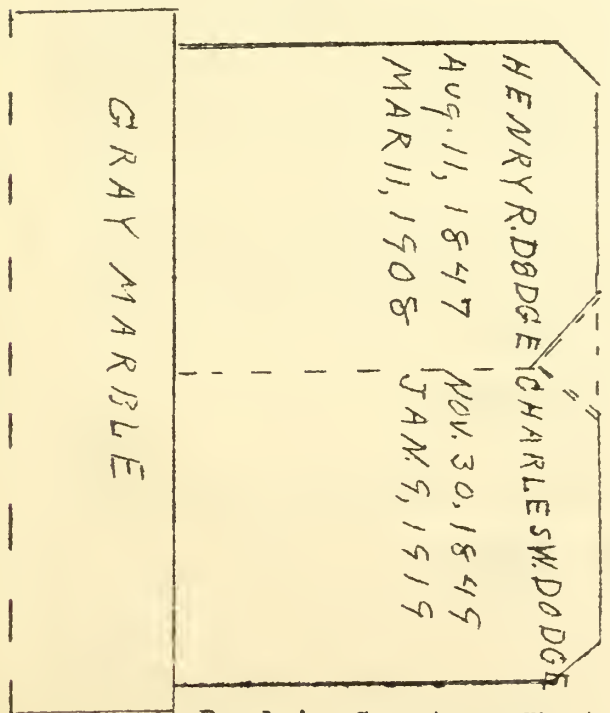
This half lot is opposite and across cemetery road from Horace L.Quinton. Both are alike white marble,3ft.X2ft.X7inches. For Amos Gale see 9-5501. For Henry R.Dodge see 9-5505.





Road in Cemetery;West end gate to left.

On south side of cemetery (right hand from entrance),half way across in a double lot near fence,or road is a large,simple,two base granite monument,polished surface for inscriptions; on the side we approach is the grave of Stella M. (Dodge) Jewett,9-5504; across the monument,which is in the center,is the grave of Mary (Rich) Yardley,10-3500,the whole nicely kept with markers.

Facing us the monument has these letters cut,or sunken,in it:

BARRE,Vt.,"WEST HILL",or"MOWER'S CEMETERY",a little west and off the road from Barre city to north east corner Williamstown,is an abandoned and nearly destroyed small cemetery seen by me in the Sept.1926 visit and never visited by my parents living close by all their lives. Such is life.

In the center of the south side all in a row are four simple but respectable marble white,stones:

"Ruth wife of Jno (John)Smith died Sept.16,1852 aged 61.(7-306)

"Amy Smith,died Aug.7,1840, aged 73 years." (See 6-505)

"Alfred,son of John and Ruth Smith,died Feb.6,1848,aged 23yrs." (See 8-1403)

"Arvilla B.,dau.of John and Ruth Smith,d.Sept.19,1840,in the 26th year of her age." (See 8-1400)

Raised, polished "S";

Cut granite;

polished, raised.
2ft. wide
1-2 high.

The original marble headstones, expensive and ample, were removed by Ann, 9-4100, and her son David C. Gale, and a nice granite monument put in the center of the lot. No markers were erected to the graves but the compiler remembers the location as given in the diagram on the second page over.

On the south side of the monument (opposite this side) are these names and inscriptions: (See 8-1002)

HORACE SMITH
1811 -1888
SARAH GRAVES SMITH
HIS WIFE
1820 -1877
GEORGE B. THEIR SON
1838 -1840

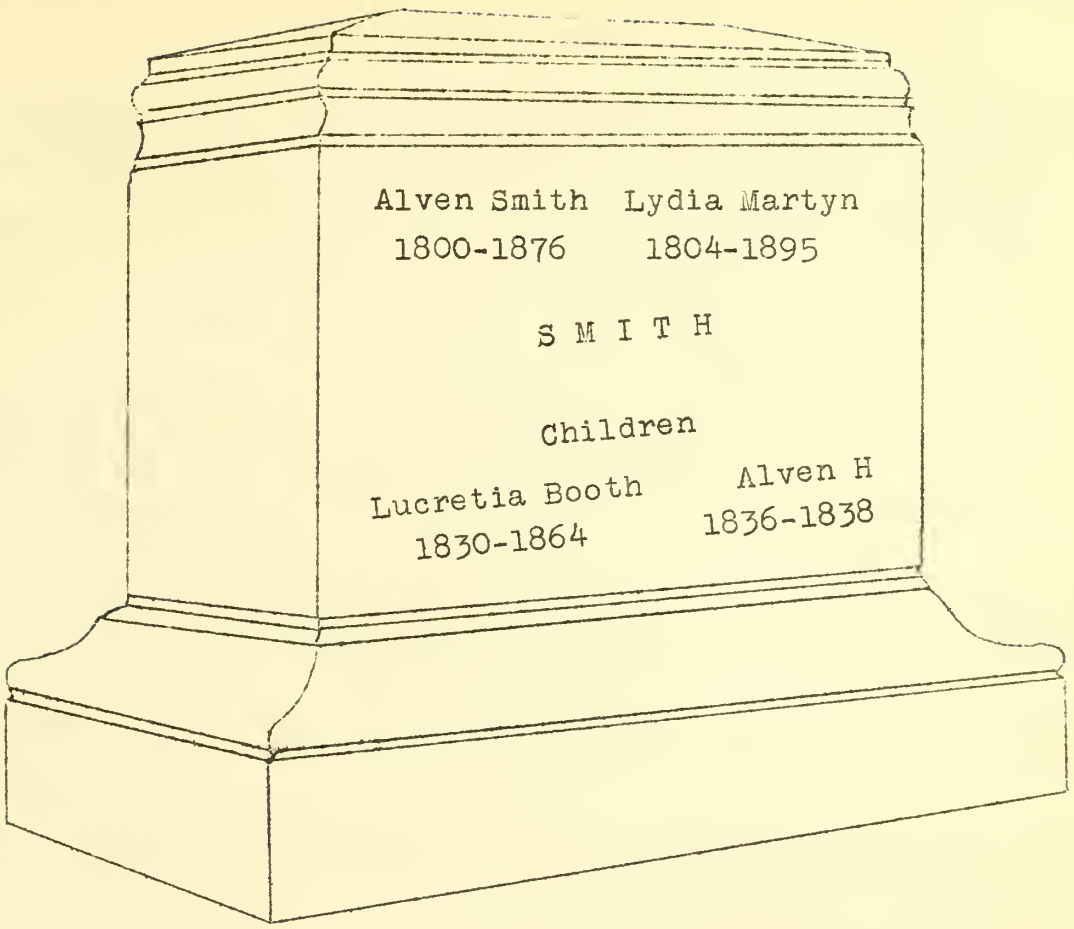
On the east (left) end of the monument next the cemetery road, cut into the polished surface and not easy to read, is the following, (for 6-500):

JOHN SMITH
1753 - 1841

(2800)

And on the opposite (west) end this: (10-

ARIEL BURNHAM
1864 - 1874



The above is a draft, drawn and stenciled by Percy T. Smith grandson of David, of a monument in Williamstown Vt., village cemetery (see chart next page). It was errected in 1916 by Alven M. Smith to replace heavy, expensive marble head-stones previously there, and the whole in photograph was approved by his mother the day before her death. It is 5ft. 6in. long, 2ft. 8in. wide and 5ft. high, of cut granite, all letters and figures raised and of oval form, the top being slightly roof shaped. There are heavy, cut top, granite markers to each grave, bearing on their tops large raised initial letters. Large corner-stones mark the lot. The side shown above is the north one, toward the highway. On the south side, in similar balanced position and appearance is the following, the two spaces underneath intended for the other son and wife:

D A V I D M. S M I T H L O I S G T H O M S O N
1 8 2 7 - 1 9 1 5 1 8 3 8 - 1 9 1 6

C H I L D R E N

1858 - 1876

C L E M E N T E
1862 - 1870

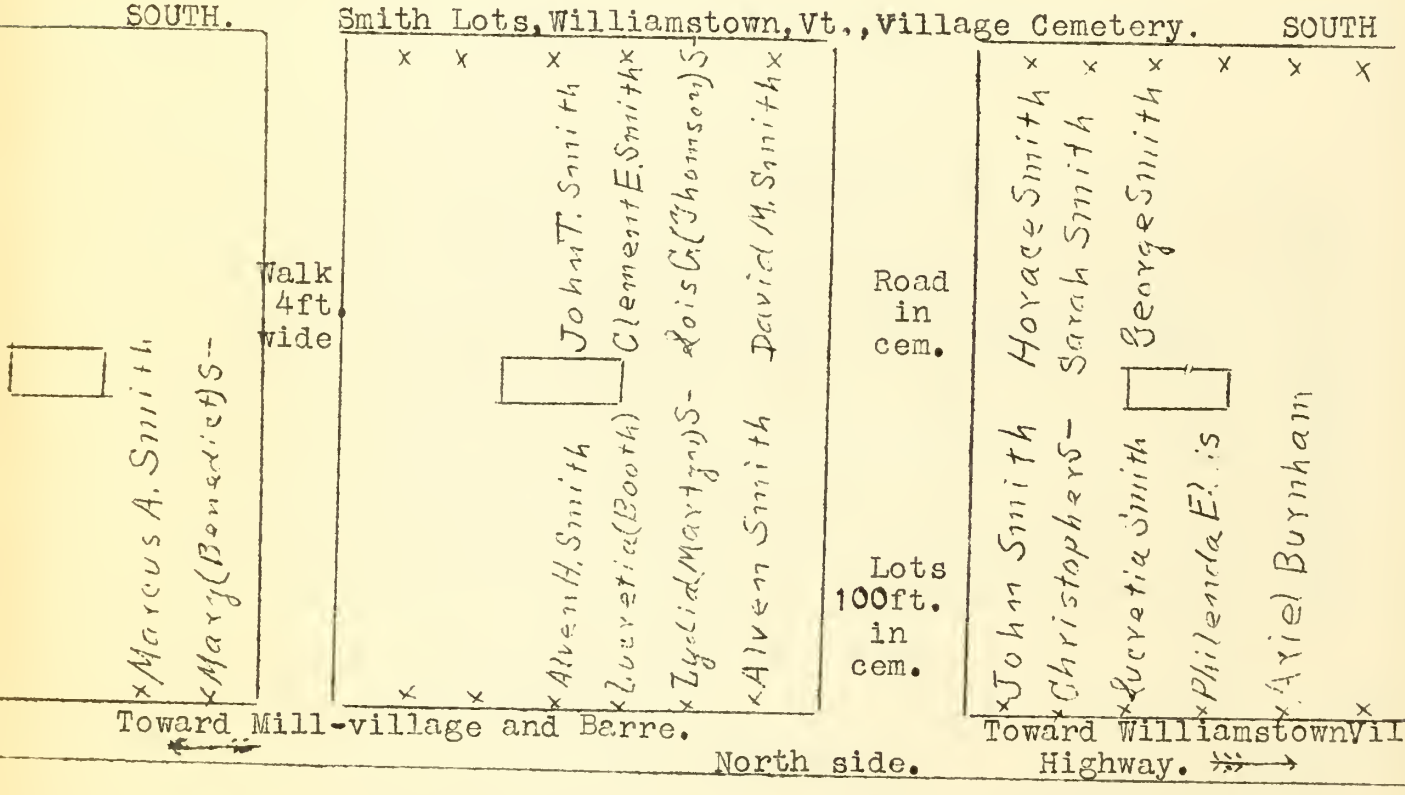
The Alven Smith lot is directly across the cemetery road east of the John and his son Christopher Smith one. (See diagram below). And the Marcus A. Smith, (9-3805), son of Alven, is directly east of this one, making five generations in adjacent lots.

The M.A. Smith monument was erected by his sons shortly after the father's death and is like the other two, of granite and equal size. It has on it only the name SMITH, with a broken piller at the right of the name; there are granite markers, names and dates in raised letters and figures on top.

These three Smith lots are in an incorporated cemetery in, or north of the main part of the village, Williamstown, Vt.; enter the drive-in gate on the highest ground (opposite the home at one time of Christopher Smith, 7-301); go to the highest swell in the ground and on the right side of the road in the cemetery is the lot selected at the beginning of the cemetery, prob. about 1845, by Christopher Smith and containing the bodies as marked in the diagram below, with the large monument in the center of each lot.

(The Smith kindred, the Martyns, are largely in the West Hill cem. and the Martins, in the East Hill cemetery.)

In the diagram below so far as the compiler knows, the spaces without names are vacant, (Sept. 1931).



(A very old paper lays before us. The different writing indicates someone copied the will (therefore the spelling etc. is their own), Feb. 13, 1777, and had the Clerk attest this copy after the will was "allowed" (probated), June 10, 1777, the date is plain, -the clerks writing being well and neatly formed. Silas died Jan. 8, 1777, and the will is dated January, 13, 1777, the month changed by the clerk from Feb. but he didnot notice the figures:
